'General' Scores For Detroit On Double By Gehringer

WRIGLEY FIELD, Chicago, Oct. 5. (AP)—Repulsing a feverish attack by the Cubs in the ninth, the Detroit Tigers grabbed their third world series victory in four starts today when they turned back the National leaguers 2 to 1. "General" Alvin Crowder was on the mound the entire distance for the winners.

Gabby Hartnett, stocky Cub catcher, lined out a homer in the second for the Cubs' only score. A screeching double by Charley Gehringer in the third, scoring Crowder, put the Tigers back in the game.

Play by play:

FIRST INNING

TIGERS—White fanned. Cochrane bounced, was tossed out on a pretty play, Herman to Cavarretta. Gehringer fanned.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

CUBS—Galan up. Galan grounded out to Owen. Herman grounded sharply to Owen who juggled the ball but tossed to Crowder to make the putout. Lindstrom popped to Owen.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SECOND INNING

TIGERS — Goslin rapped the first pitch through the box and was credited with a scratch single. Fox dropped a double just inside the left field line, Goslin went to third. Rogell walked. Hartnett threw to third but Goslin slid back safely. Owen popped to Herman. Clifton lined to Jurges who made a spectacular leaping one-hand catch and tossed to Herman to retire Fox and complete a double play.

No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

CUBS — Hartnett pounded a home run into the right field stands. Demaree fanned. Cavarretta fanned. Hack fanned. He

U. S. MOVES TO BLOCK WAR

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. (AP)—Taking a new step designed to preserve American neutrality in a troubled world, the state department today had completed arrangements for licensing all manufactured exports and imports of implements of war.

The government, however, had not yet placed an embargo on shipments of American arms and munitions to Italy and Ethiopia, although the decision on which the embargo question hinges was believed to be near. Many observers thought it might be made by tonight or Monday.

War Machinery

ITALY—Based at Asmara and working toward Addis Ababa, capital of Ethiopia, via Adigrat and Aduwa—both reported captured—Premier Mussolini's Eritrer forces appear to have the upper hand over poorly organized Ethiopians. Here, beneath Il Duce's stern gaze, are a group of Italian soldiers, near the front, drilling with their late model war machinery which has so far proven too much for the savage skill of the Ethiopians.

ASMARA, ERITREA, Oct. 5.—Italian forces, advancing within immediate striking distance of Aduwa, announced today they had surprised strong Ethiopian picket lines and had broken up plans for a counter attack against Eritrea.

Prisoners confessed the tribal warriors were ready to attack this Italian colony. Orders found in the clothing of Ethiopian dead also disclosed details of the attack.

LEAGUE SAYS ETHIOPIA IS ABSOLVED

Blame For War Outbreak Not Laid To Africans In Report Today

ITALY WILL PROTEST

New Committee Will Be Appointed; Aloisi Is Angered

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

GENEVA, Oct. 5.—A League of Nations' report, absolving Ethiopia from blame for war, went before the league council today to be met instantaneously by an Italian declaration of full reservations concerning it.

With the galleries of the league packed with spectators and the European situation tense, Baron Pompeo Aloisi, chief delegate of Italy, declared he wished to make full reservations concerning the statement submitted by the council's "Committee of 13."

Present at the council session was the Ethiopian delegate, Tecle Hawariate, whose government earlier in the afternoon called on the council to act under the league covenant provision of military sanctions against aggressor nations.

Ethiopia Cleared

The Ethiopian plea arrived almost simultaneously with the publication of the council committee's report, which definitely cleared Ethiopia of any charges of aggression but did not definitely specify Italy as the aggressor.

Dr. Eduard Benes, president of the league assembly, decided to call that body into urgent session next Wednesday to consider the Italo-Ethiopian struggle.

The council decided in principle to appoint a new committee—a "Committee of Six"—to examine the dispute in the light of the "new situation" and to make recommendations as to what the council should do next.

The countries selected for this committee of six were Great Britain, France, Rumania, Portugal, Chile and Denmark.

Baron Aloisi accused the council of failing to handle the Ethiopian problem from the standpoint of stern realities.

He warned that unless those factors were eliminated which he claimed made Ethiopia aggressive, it would be impossible "to realize an equitable solution of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict."

When Aloisi had completed his speech, Tecle Hawariate, the little Ethiopian delegate, rose in the hushed chamber to answer.

Solemnly, he said: "I ask the council to address the Italian government an appeal to cease all military operation and to stop the massacre of innocent populations."

Aloisi sat silently, without looking at the Ethiopian speaker. He appeared to be studying intently a typewritten document before him but the color rose to his

ADDIS ABABA, Oct. 5.—Aduwa, city of vengence, but without an Ethiopian soldier in its streets, was reported today to have fallen to the Italian army.

It was stated unofficially that the Italian forces moved in without opposition to find a city populated only by women, children, and such infirm men as had been unable to join Emperor Haile Selassie's armies. (In Rome officials reported Aduwa was in a virtual state of siege, and had not fallen.)

It was indicated the Ethiopian troops had fallen back behind the town into the hills while their brothers in arms fought desparately to block the east jaw of the Italian pincers whose west jaw was at Aduwa. Serious fighting was reported in the direction of Adigrat.

An official government communique said Adigrat, which the Italians reported yesterday they had captured, was held by Ethiopian forces, although the vanguard of the Italian column was not much more than one-half hour's march away. Adigrat is only 40 miles from Aduwa.

Shoot Women, Children

Italian airplanes were stated officially to have shot down women and children in the village of Bethe Hawariat, close to Adigrat. The non-combatants, it was said, were running to shelter when the airmen opened fire.

Italian airplanes were swarming all over the Adigrat area.

A government communique read:

"The Italians penetrated the towns of Wayeta and Enguela near Adigrat but have not yet reached Adigrat.

"A spirited battle occurred

SEE EUROPEAN PEACE HOPE

PARIS, Oct. 5. (AP)—French officials reported today that the idea of military sanctions to combat the Italo-Ethiopian war had been "completely junked" by Great Britain and France, giving rise to fresh hope that European peace can be maintained.

Worried by the possibility of further strained relations between England and Italy, and intent on obtaining some guarantee from London for help in the event of trouble on France's eastern frontier, the cabinet last night gave Premier Laval a vote of confidence before his departure for Geneva.

CAMPBELL PAL IS CAPTURED

NEOSHO, Mo., Oct. 5. (AP)—A prisoner arrested here today and reported by officers to be Harry Campbell, public enemy No. 2 and a pal of Alvin Karpis, later was said by Deputy Sheriff John Brock to have been definitely identified as Thomas L. Carpenter, an alleged associate of Campbell.

Carpenter is wanted in Kansas on charges of robbing three stores at Sedan and mistreating a night watchman. He also is wanted in connection with robberies at Coffeyville and Hutchinson.

Modernized

ETHIOPIA—Although most of Emperor Selassie's troops are organized in tribes, and fight largely with spears and daggers, this picture shows some of the Ethiopian forces practicing more modern warfare. So far Mussolini's men have encountered only the tribesmen—not the trained troops of Haile Selassie.

BOARD SUED BY TEACHER

Capistrano Instructor Seeks Reinstatement And His Salary

Charging that the San Juan Capistrano Union High school district, through its board of directors, had employed him for the sixth year as a probationary teacher and then refused to allow him to teach, Stanley G. Gould has obtained a writ of mandamus against the district and individual members of the board ordering his reinstatement and payment of his salary.

Mr. Gould names as defendants the high school district and Aaron Bucheim, Dr. Paul W. Esslinger, Carl W. Hankey, Charles E. Crumrine and Clare S. Hogeland as members of the school board. The writ, returnable Oct. 18 in department 2, superior court, was signed by Judge G. K. Scovill, acting presiding judge.

The board is ordered to either reinstate Mr. Gould and pay him his salary of $1700, or show cause why he should not be employed.

In his petition Mr. Gould alleged that he had taught commercial geography, mathematics, algebra, physical education, presided over study hall and coached athletic teams of the school for the past five years as a probationary teacher.

May 14, last, he alleges, he was tendered a new contract and was notified that he had been elected to teach during the present year. The contract was signed and returned to the school board May 27. On Sept. 10, when school opened, he reported for duty and

41 PCT. VOTE CAST

Board Meets Monday On Situation; Ballots Are Analyzed

Please turn to page 7 for a complete tabulation of the water bond vote.

The proposed $6,620,000 bond issue for Orange county's water program failed by a small margin to get the necessary two-thirds majority at yesterday's election. The vote was 14,308 for the bonds and 8614 against them.

But today the board of supervisors and others were hoping that something can be done to preserve the Works Progress administration grant of $6,574,000, and that some arrangement can be worked out to utilize it for a water conservation and flood control program. Sixty-two per cent of the vote favored the program, showing that a majority of the people wish water conservation and flood control.

Board Meets Monday

While nothing definite has yet come out of the maze of plans that have been suggested, it is understood that definite steps are being taken in the hope of keeping the federal grant for Orange county at least temporarily. The board of supervisors will meet Monday, at which time they will consider the situation and may make a statement regarding it.

W. H. Spurgeon, chairman of the citizens' water committee, made public a statement today in which he suggested the possibility of calling another bond election. He also said those who opposed the program "should not prove their good faith by presenting a real plan, if they can do so, which will be acceptable to the voters."

Rural Area Votes 'Yes'

An analysis of the vote yesterday shows that the rural areas of the county gave the bonds the necessary two-thirds majority and 351 votes to spare. Santa Ana and Fullerton were the two larger cities which failed to provide the necessary two-thirds majority.

Anaheim, Orange, Newport Beach, Laguna Beach, Garden Grove, Seal Beach and Yorba Linda were among the communities which put their stamp of approval on the bonds.

Costa Mesa, Brea, Buena Park, Huntington Beach, La Habra and Placentia were in the other column.

Even without Santa Ana and Fullerton in the tally, however, the bonds would have failed to carry.

41 Per Cent Vote

Forty-one per cent of the county's 54,675 registered voters expressed themselves at the ballot boxes yesterday. The total vote cast was 23,278.

Fullerton, La Habra 107 "yes" and 219 "no" and Brea were the towns in which there was a larger no vote than there was in favor of the bonds. Fullerton's vote was 873 "yes" and 960 "no." Brea piled up 210 "no" votes to 173 "yes" votes. La Habra's vote was larger than all other communities which gave the bonds at least a simple majority. Santa Ana's city vote was 3172 to 2283 for the bonds.

Reasons for Failure

At Fullerton one factor in defeat of the bonds was that the city is in the Metropolitan water district, which tended to give the people the assurance of at least more water than they have now. In Santa Ana a similar situation prevailed. The fear of increased taxes was regarded as a major barrier in both cities. Santa Ana, too, is in the Metropolitan water district. The tenor of the people was suggested recently, also, in the defeat of a school bond issue.

Brea, located on the hills where it has no major flood damage to fear, is within the Fullerton trade area.

Buena Park Favors

Buena Park gave the bonds a majority vote of 297 to 181, showing that while there was not enough sentiment to carry the bonds, there was a substantial element which realized the danger

Anaheim Association Fined $100 For Granulated Fruit Sale; Sentence Suspended

Changing tactics after pleading not guilty to two counts of selling granulated fruit, officials of the Anaheim Citrus Fruit association, headed by Dr. D. D. Waynick, appeared in justice court in Anaheim Thursday and pleaded guilty, according to information received here today.

With the plea of guilty filed by Thomas L. McFadden, attorney for the association, and with a previous conviction on a similar charge against them, and association was fined $100 by Justice of the Peace Charles Kuchel who suspended the sentence.

According to the complaint, the association was charged with selling granulated fruit to a dealer in San Diego and to a buyer at Long Beach. When the complaint was filed in Anaheim by officers of the state department of agriculture, John Dunn, manager of the Anaheim house of the association which is connected with the California Fruit Growers exchange, appeared before Justice of the Peace Kuchel and entered a plea of not guilty.

On Thursday, D. Collins, assistant manager of the house, through Mr. McFadden, appeared in court and changed the plea to guilty, the fine was assessed, and payment suspended.

In substituting the guilty plea, Mr. McFadden told Judge Kuchel, without attempting to justify the action of the association, that the directors were persons of integrity and high standing in the community and would not wilfully attempt to market inferior fruit. He also pointed out to the court that a previously suspended sentence against the association, although a violation of the same section of the agricultural code, was for packing immature fruit and therefore a different offense.

The request of E. Johnson of the county agricultural commissioner's office in Santa Ana that judgment be postponed for one day until Frank Kramer of the state department of agriculture and complaining witness, could be present and state the facts, was ignored by Judge Kuchel, who immediately passed sentence and suspended payment of the fine.

PLANE BREAKS POWER LINE

Army, Edison Company Hunt Pilot After Newport Landing

Mystery surrounding the forced landing of an army reserve plane on the Irvine fill in Newport harbor today had army officials and Southern California Edison Company representatives searching for the pilot of the plane.

Roy Edwards, manager of the Bay View Inn, located on the bluff overlooking Newport harbor, witnessed the accident. He told army officers today that the plane had flown extremely low over the inn, and had just missed crashing into the roof of the building. In gliding over the bluff and to the Irvine fill, the plane tore through an 11,000-volt Edison power line, breaking the wire. Coast towns south of the broken line were deprived of electricity for nearly two hours, it was learned.

ITALIANS PUSHING NORTH!

Air Bombardment Paves Way

ROME, Oct. 5. (AP) — Italian troops pushed northward from Somaliland into Ethiopia today, occupying Dolo and surrounding regions.

The advance over the southern Ethiopian front, which an official communique said began yesterday, was accompanied by an aerial bombardment of the city of Gorranhei, in the same sector.

The Eritrean army in the north, meanwhile, launched at dawn today its third successive advance around Aduwa.

The official communique said that one Italian an one native Eritrean army corps reached advanced guards at Adigrat and Entiscio in the north, where the population showed white flags and placed themselves under Italian protection.

A third army corps, with strong aerial cooperation, overcame reinforced enemy troops at Daro Tacle and advanced to the south, expecting to take further positions this evening.

In the eastern lowland, the communique said, Italian air forces dispersed a strong gathering of troops under Sultan Teru in the Aussa region.

Defense forces at Amba-Bircutan, under the command of Ras Buru, also were bombarded from the air.

General Elimio de Bono, in command of the Eritrean forces, reported that his troops withstood very well the hard fighting although they made long marches over difficult terrain in hot weather.

A belief that France would not desert Italy for British conceptions of league justice in the Italo-Ethiopian conflict permeated government circles today.

ITALIAN, ETHIOPIAN FORCES CLASHING ON THREE BROAD FRONTS

100,000 MEN FIGHTING ON EACH SIDE

Natives Offering Stiff Resistance In Aduwa Sector, Report

(By the Associated Press)

The fall of Aduwa, first objective of the Italian drive into Ethiopia from the north, was both reported and denied today.

At Addis Ababa, capital of the black empire, it was said unofficially that Aduwa had been occupied by Italians without resistance.

At Rome, an official communique stated Aduwa was still in Ethiopian hands and in a virtual state of siege.

There was fighting on three broad fronts in Ethiopia, some of it fierce, some of it confined to airplane bombing and some of it skirmishing.

Good Resistance

Significant was the resistance being offered by Ethiopians around Mussa Ali and in the desert country of Danakil on the Aduwa front.

Simultaneous with the report that Aduwa had been occupied, Ethiopia asked the League of Nations council to invoke military, naval and air sanctions against Italy immediately.

The war fronts were like this:

The Aduwa Sector

The Italians, based at Asmara in Eritrea, were using a force of 100,000 men, with planes, tanks, cavalry and every modern device of war.

Opposing them were 100,000 tribesmen—some reports said they had modern rifles and machine guns—commanded by Ras Seyoum.

Although the Italians found no Ethiopian warriors at Aduwa, they were meeting plenty of resistance a few miles east, around Adigrat and some villages in that area.

Adigrat lies east and slightly north of Aduwa. Beyond Adigrat, and south of it, lies Danakil, which is desert terrain along the Italian-controlled Eritrea. Fierce fighting was reported there, but it might be a part of the general pincer movement on Aduwa centering at Adigrat.

Reports said 700 Italians and 1300 Ethiopians had been slain in the Danakil fighting.

Mussa Ali Sector

The Danakil desert, running down the Eritrean border, connects with the Mussa Ali sector where most reports agreed there was fierce fighting. The terrain there is rugged, mountainous. It is not suitable for such tank tactics as were employed in the Aduwa sector.

The Southern Front

It was along the southern front, however, that Italy appeared to be pushing the thrusts that most seriously menace the railroad and the capital.

The fighting here has been in Ogaden province, which stretches along the border of Italian Somaliland.

One report was that 2000 Ethiopians had been killed and many wounded at Harar, which is about 70 miles south of the railroad line, and about 100 miles in from British Somaliland. The report, however, was without substantiation and is not considered accurate, for an Italian force could hardly have advanced thus deeply into Ethiopian territory; and airplanes, dropping bombs, could hardly have caused such destruction.

The General Movement

The Italian campaign plan appeared today to be in the nature of a huge pincer movement, with one side of the pincer pushing from the north—Aduma, Adigrat, Danakil and Mussa Ali; and the other side pushing from the south along virtually the entire Italian Somaliland-Ogaden province line.

American Negro Flies Ethiopian Plane Past Enemy

LONDON, Oct. 5. (AP) — An exchange telegraph dispatch from Addis Ababa late last night said John Robinson, American negro who is an Ethiopian pilot, successfully fought off two Italian attacking planes at the front and brought dispatches from there safely to the capital.

between the forces of Ras Eyoum (the Ethiopian commander in the area) and of General De Bono (the Italian leader), resulting in the capture by the Ethiopians of one Italian captain, three Eritrean officers, two machine guns, and 10 rifles.

"No Ethiopian officers were killed but considerable casualties were reported among the soldiers on both sides."

With the Italian advance against Aduwa, where Italians were defeated 40 years ago, apparently held up on the east, no reports were received here as to any farther progress by the attackers from the west.

Internal communications were improved by a resumption of service by the Gocahai radio station which was bombed from the air within the last two days.

Planes Near Capital

The Italian forces were making a heavy use of airplanes. It was reported without confirmation that nine Italian planes last night passed over Ahafatchi, a village, not shown on maps, 45 miles west of Addis Ababa.

The unconfirmed report stated they intended to bomb the capital but lost their way and returned to their base.

The emperor called together his crown council to discuss decisive measures for resistance. Grey bearded feudal lords filled his throne room.

Sixty Italian subjects, including 30 of Greek origin, started for Europe today. In the party were eight nuns, three physicians, two telegraphers, and Eugene Cerio, who built the radio station and bank buildings at Addis Ababa.

Major Calderini, the Italian military attache, and Carlo Castania, the aged architect who modernized the capital and was employed by the Ethiopian government for 40 years, also departed.

Despite the fact that the latter's sons are serving in the Italian army in Eritrea, Emperor Haile Selassie invited Castania to stay, saying "the gates of the empire are open to you." But Premier Mussolini ordered him to leave.

Two hundred Ethiopian soldiers, their machine guns poking from every window, accompanied the train of the departing emigres. All the Italians were disarmed for their three-day trip to Djibouti.

With the tension in the capital increasing, 300 of the emperor's picked men guarded the 15 Italian diplomats remaining in the city.

The emperor was reported as most encouraged by a telegram from the international Red Cross at Geneva pledging all possible assistance for hospital work and also by dispatches from abroad saying that Great Britain and France were cooperating and probably would lift the arms embargo from Ethiopia.

All British subjects in Addis Ababa have been ordered register immediately at the British consulate.

The Italians were reported to have attempted to bomb Makale, 100 miles southeast of Aduwa on the northern front, but their marksmanship was poor and their missiles dropped into a forest, setting it afire.

Simultaneously, unconfirmed reports reached the capital that 2000 Ethiopian casualties were suffered in fighting on the southern Ogaden front, facing Italian Somaliland.

One hundred thousand warriors of Ras Seyoum, Governor of East Tigre province, entrusted with the defense of Aduwa, faced Mussolini's Fascists, determined to save the city where the Italians sought revenge for a defeat in 1896.

Ras Mulugueta, veteran war minister, decided to hasten to the north Monday wtih 100,000 more troops.

Railroad Threatened

In addition to the northern front at Aduwa and the southern front in Ogaden, fierce fighting was reported in the central Mount Mussa Ali sector, with the railway line from Addis Ababa to Djibouti—Ethiopia's only modern contact with the outside world—at stake.

While the Italian forces possessed every death dealing device possible, the untutored tribesmen believed their natural fortresses would save them from the weapons of man.

Finding the use of tanks and infantry in such jagged terrain difficult, the Italians were expected to persist in the air raids against which the Ethiopians have been virtually helpless.

(A British Reuters news agency dispatch said the Italians bombed Dessie, an Ethiopian troop concentration point 150 miles southwest of Mount Mussa Ali.

700 Italians Killed

(It reported 700 Italians were said unofficially to have been killed in an all-night battle in the Danakil country, with Ethiopians losing 1300.)

In accordance with their prearranged plan, the Ethiopians apparently intended to allow the Italians to advance virtually unopposed up to a certain well defined line deep within the northern boundaries. Then the defenders would release fusilades of rifle, machine and artillery fire from their mountain perches.

Cornelius Van H. Engert, American charge d'affaires at Addis Ababa, presented a large American flag to the proprietor of the hotel where the majority of American journalists and cameramen are living, hoping the stars and stripes flying from the roof would be sufficient to dissuade Italians from an air attack.

It was believed generally that while the Italian minister, Luigi Vinci-Gigliucci, and Italian consular authorities remained in the country, the Fascist fliers would refrain from bombings which might conceivably lead to reprisals against the Italians here.

Except for a few anti-aircraft guns, Addis Ababa is completely unprotected against any such assault.

Widespread dread of an early visit by Italian bombers persisted in the capital. The government began construction of six giant, gas-proof dugouts on the outskirts of the city.

Many inhabitants slept in the open in anticipation of an air raid, returning to the city only after dawn.

LONDON, Oct. 5. (AP)—Authoritative sources disclosed today that Premier Mussolini has bid for simultaneous cancellation of Anglo-Italian precautionary military measures in the Mediterranean, but the proposal was greeted with silence by the British government.

A further Italian approach for resumption of tri-power discussions to clear up the Italo-Ethiopian conflict was made on behalf of Mussolini, but likewise was greeted negatively.

Britain Stands Firm

The Britsh governmnt let it be known that it stands firm in its position that the whole dispute is in the hands of the League of Nations and must be settled there.

The approaches were made by Dino Grandi, Iatlian ambassador to London, during a visit yesterday to Sir Samuel Hoare, British foreign secretary.

Grandi brought a telegram he had received from Mussolini, as well as a personal letter from Mussolini, which he read to Hoare. Mussolini took the position that he had not defied the league and that he would leave the league if its action compelled him to do so.

He expressed a desire to limit his military measures to colonial activity in Ethiopia, avoiding any extension of the conflict.

Italy 'Mistaken'

Sir Samuel Hoare, in his reply, said that an unfortunate and gravely mistaken Italian viewpoint existed concerning the British attitude toward the whole Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

He told Grandi plainly that since Italy had taken military action, the British government viewed it as increasingly difficult to make progress toward settlement of the dispute.

Mussolini submitted the viewpoint, on the other hand, that the British misunderstood the Italian attitude.

Il duce said he did not approve the stand the British have always taken that Emperor Haile Selassie's consent must be necessary to any agreement before the British would consent to support it.

Ethiopian Sacrifice

The Ethiopian declared: Ethiopia has made a great sacrifice in the interests of peace."

Then he read to the council the plea made today by Ethiopia for the immediate enforcement of military, naval and aviation sanctions against Italy.

The Ethiopian note said:

1. That a resort to war by Italy within the meaning of Article XVI of the covenant constitutes an indisputable fact;

2. That this resort to war has, ipso facto, brought about the consequences laid down in Article XVI, paragraph 1—(stating that if a league member resorts to war in disregard of the covenant it has committed an act of war against all other members of the league.)

"Lastly, the Ethiopian government respectfully asks the council to fulfill its duty under Article XVI, paragraph 2, and put an end as soon as posible to hostilities.

"Here and now, the Ethiopian government proclaims its people are resolved to defend their independence and the integrity of their territory to the last drop of their blood and will endure the unjust war that has been imposed upon them for as long as may be necessary to defend their age-long inheritance.

Ethiopians Determined

"They will not give way to force despite the superiority of the implements of war and massacre accumulated against them by a merciless enemy.

"They are conscious of defending not only their existence but the sacred cause of the independence of all small states which, if this unjust aggression should triumph, would one day be as exposed as Ethiopia is today to becoming the prey of a powerful and unscrupulous aggressor.

"Ethiopia asks the League of Nations to declare that treaties must be kept, that wars of aggression be outlawed, that force must give way to justice."

2 TRUCKS RUN DOWN STRIKER

KENOSHA, Wis., Oct. 5. (AP)—Herman Slater, 41, a farmer living five miles south of Burlington, Wis., was killed today when, with a group of farmers, he attempted to stop one of five trucks hauling milk to Chicago.

Between 150 and 200 men massed on a highway south of Kenosha and tossed planks into the path of five trucks.

The first truck swerved to the left, striking Slater. The second machine pulled to the right, missing him. The third ran over him as he sat in the road. The trucks did not stop.

WHO'D STEAL A RATTLESNAKE?

It's Happened; Cops Ask Why

Some people do not care what they steal.

At 10:40 p. m. yesterday, a call came into the Santa Ana police department from the Orange police department.

The Orange officer said: "We have a man here who says that he has had a rattlesnake stolen."

"He has had what stolen?" asked Desk Sergeant J. F. McWilliams.

"A rattlesnake. One with six buttons on its tail, and it was stolen from a car parked in front of one of the thaters in Santa Ana," the voice replied.

"What are you trying to do, make me mad?" the bewildered desk sergeant asked.

"I am not," Orange onswered. "This man really had a rattlesnake stolen from his car. It has six rattles and is two feet long. I don't know what its name is."

Sergeant McWilliams made a report on the conversation. Personally, he hopes that he will not be called upon to find the rattlesnake, because he has never been on speaking terms with snakes and he does not care to become acquainted with the one in question.

Members of the Orange police department when questioned today denied that any report of the snake theft had been made to them, and that they had made such a report to Santa Ana police.

BONDS

Buena Park also is close to Anaheim, where a handsome vote was piled up for the bonds.

Huntington Beach gave the bonds a majority of 340 to 218, but not enough for a two-thirds majority. Other coast regions including Laguna Beach and Newport Beach came through with the necessary two-thirds vote. Newport Beach, observers say, was grateful for the fact that the county supported its harbor program. It also is keenly aware of the need for preserving its water supply. Huntington Beach, perhaps feeling disappointment over failure of its oil royalties to develop new revenue when a bill which would have provided for these royalties was vetoed, was apparently not in the mood for a two-thirds majority for the water bonds.

Feared No Flood

La Habra is not within the underground basin from which the rest of the county pumps water, and also is on higher land where the anticipated flood damage might not be so great. Placentia occupies a similar position. Its vote was 89 "yes" and 47 "no."

On the other hand Yorba Linda, also on the hills, piled up a handsome majority for the bonds, the vote being 334 to 30. The support of the farm center group, the newspaper and the hard work of George Kellogg and others is believed to have been responsible for the Yorba Linda vote. In addition it is a citrus region where farmers realize the need for water.

Costa Mesa gave the bonds a majority of 310 to 287. It is a region of small farms, where it is believed the prospect of added taxes was one of the barriers to support of the bonds. The prospect of a tax increase is held to be a major factor in defeat of the bonds throughout the county.

Garden Grove Approves

Laguna Beach gave the bonds a vote of 395 to 187. In that city rapid development is going on, and it is recognized that water will be a vital necessity if the city is to grow.

San Clemente, which gave the bonds a vote of 149 to 31, also is in a position to realize the need for water.

Garden Grove gave the bonds a vote of 543 to 153. This highly developed farm region faces almost certain flood damage in the event of a major deluge. Its prosperity is based on water for its farms. Hard work by H. Clay Kellogg, J. W. Crill and others is believed responsible in a large measure for the vote also.

Anaheim is located 47 feet below the bed of the Santa Ana river and experts have advanced the opinion that in event of a flood it would be directly in the path of the stream. The area surrounding Anaheim is a rich citrus region. The fact that Anaheim is in the Metropolitan water district evidently did not deter its voters from recognizing the need for conservation of all available water. Anaheim voted 1396 to 626 for the bonds.

Orange, which gave the bonds a vote of 1069 to 509, is not in the Metropolitan district. Both the city and surrounding farm areas depend upon underground water. Possibility of flood damage also was regarded as a factor in the Orange vote.

Cotton Issues Statement

Hamilton H. Cotton, prominent Democrat who worked on behalf of the bonds, today issued a statement in regard to the federal grant. He said that "Orange county, under the handicap of a two-thirds majority rule, has seen fit to turn down the offer of the federal government to contribute in excess of $6,000,000 to the safety and upbuilding of our county.

"This project, under review of the board in Washington, was recognized as one of the outstanding projects that had been submitted for consideration.

"The other regions of California which have been clamoring for federal allocations now have the chance to receive the benefits that this county has rejected, but which our county, under the federal tax system, must pay without any offsetting benefits."

Would Preserve Grant

It is known, however, that Mr. Cotton is interested in attempting to preserve the federal grant for the county. One of the plans which has been proposed is that, if the grant is preserved, the county add to it enough to build the upper Prado dam on the Santa Ana river. Thi spart of the county's money would have to be raised by direct taxation. The supervisors have not indicated any intention so far of adopting any definite future plan. The original cost of the Prado dam was set at $7,215,397, but this figure was established when the original cost of the total program was $11,600,000. The government has boosted the total to $13,194,000.

Another possibility under discussion is that the county water district might lead a movement for a dam at Prado. This district does not include the larger cities. While their absence would reduce the assessed valuation on which to draw, at the same time the opposition votes also would be eliminated.

SCOUTS LEAVING TODAY FOR SAN DIEGO CAMP

Approximately 100 Boy Scouts of Orange county will establish and maintain a camp of their own, as a unit of the Southern California camporal for Boy Scouts on the San Diego exposition grounds today and Sunday.

The county delegation of 12 patrols was to leave by train, automobile and truck today. Harrison White, head of the council, was in general charge of the party, with patrol leaders assisting.

Delegates will pitch their tents at the San Diego Indian village on the fair grounds, and will prepare their own meals. The encampment will be conducted on a competitive basis.

Director Ted Collins' Boy Scout band, selected from county talent, will present three concerts.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5. (AP)—Cincinnati was chosen as next year's convention city by the nearly 1000 delegates of the nation Girl Scout convention. The session was marked by formal induction into office of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the former president, as president of the national council.

DODGE OFFERS BIG SAVING

JOHN JOBMAN

"The breath-taking beauty and ultra-smart lines of the big, new, money-saving Dodge are exciting the admiration of all those I have been able to see and talk with since returning from pre-viewing the new 1936 Dodge," says John Jobman, salesman for L. D. Coffing Company.

"Dodge, of course, has a reputation I suppose you know for ruggedness and dependability; a lot of Dodge owners reported amazing gas and oil mileage this past year. There's no gain-saying the fact that Dodge is a fine manufacturing institution, but if it's style you're interested in I don't hesitate to say that this new Dodge for 1936 is beyond a doubt the smartest looking, handsomest and most beautiful car that ever came out of the Dodge plant."

PREFERS JAIL TO DEPORTATION

Margarito Quiroz, who recently pleaded guilty to a charge of having marijuana in his possession, was denied probation yesterday and sentenced to serve six months in jail when he told Judge G. K. Scovel, department 3, superior court, that he preferred jail to returning to Mexico. Judge Scovel had indicated that he would grant probation if Quiroz agreed to return to his homeland.

Jose Rivera, also accused of possession of marijuana, was granted probation in department 2, superior court, by Judge A. Caminnetti when he agreed to return to Mexico and remain for at least one year, the term of his probation. Rivera will be held in the county jail until the time of his departure.

Joe Rodiquez and Ernest Allsman, guilty of grand theft, were sentenced to Preston School of Industry by Judge Caminnetti who suspended sentence and then granted the youths probation for three years.

DIVORCE GIVEN MRS. KEATON

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5. (AP)—The sober-faced film comedian, Buster Keaton, divorced by his second wife, today found himself a principal in an alienation of affections suit.

The second Mrs. Keaton obtained a divorce yesterday on an amended complaint in which she eliminated Mrs. Leah Clampitt Sewell as co-respondent.

Mrs. Keaton, in her original divorce action, accused Mrs. Sewell of improper relations with her comedian-husband in a Santa Barbara hotel last July 4. Mrs. Keaton at the same time sued Mrs. Sewell, the wife of Barton Sewell, millionaire sportsman, for $200,000 for alleged alienation of the actor's affections.

SEEK FOUR WHO KIDNAPED L. A. MAN

Police today were searching for four Negroes, two men and two women, who Thursday night accosted a Los Angeles fireman in Watts, forced him into their car, and later threw him to the side of the road near Sunset Beach. The victim, La Francis Jordan, colored, was found lying at the side of the road early Friday.

Deputy Sheriff G. F. McKelvey found that the victim had been picked up by a passing motorist and taken to Anaheim. The kidnapers gave Jordan a severe beating and robbed him of his watch and billfold which contained $5.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR I.O.O.F. CONVENTION IN ANAHEIM

Brick Dust

Here and There With The Journal's Rambling County Editor

By T. N. (BRICK) GAINES

THERE seems to be a move on foot for incorporation of Costa Mesa—lots of people there think that it's a good idea. So do we.

The biggest and best growl that they have coming is about the speeding. Although they have one of the best judges in this part of the country, he can't put a stop, almost single-handed, to the speeding menace. Judge Donald Dodge is gaining a name for himself when it comes to handling speeders. . . . I imagine that he almost says "Five days" in his sleep.

But, if the community were incorporated, they could pass more stringent laws and stop cars from running through the business district at 40 and 50 miles an hour while state police are elsewhere.

As it is, we hear, lots of people aren't coming to town any more to do their shopping because they're afraid to cross the streets . . . drivers really do whizz through town, and should be slowed down.

And, if they were incorporated, they could easily form their sewer districts, have their own fire department, and get lots of other needed improvements without much additional cost to the taxpayers.

PERHAPS they could even hire a flying policeman to enforce the laws against low-traveling planes, which, we hear, are as bad as ever.

LIKE Capistrano and San Clemente, Costa Mesans are all warmed up over the parallel parking situation.

They are also affected by the state highway law which makes the straight parking necessary. The wail is that about one-third as many shoppers can park on the business streets as could before. The other two-thirds must park in the vacant property across the boulevard and scurry through the speeders, make their purchases, and then, with a bag of potatoes under one arm and the chicken feed under the other, scurry back again.

Perhaps the only remedy is to build Dr. Huston's proposed bicycle cinderpath from the Martin airport to Costa Mesa, and let shoppers and visitors to the community take up bicycle riding . . . for their health.

THEY'VE finally decided to start building on new schools in Fullerton and Placentia.

Fullerton's new $427,000 program should start by Dec. 15, we're told. They're to make reports on calling of bids for contracts by Oct. 10. From then on, the elementary schools will start looking like new.

Work will start about the same time on a new $90,000 junior college building. Uncle Sam is going to give 'em $51,000 of the total. The new unit will be built on the land purchased for a college east of the high school, on the former Shepherd property.

Placentia will put up two ultra-modern buildings on Bradford avenue, one to replace the original building which was burned last October, and the other to take the place of a wobbly wing which is built of hollow tile.

In addition to that, they're going to take students out of the Mexican Baker street school and put 'em in cheap buildings on Santa Fe avenue.

Even if we can't build dams, we can have some nice schoolhouses in our county.

THEY'VE picked a good man to head the Red Cross drive in Fullerton. He's Harry Smith, the village banker, who is good at running such things. Lloyd Verry, who's chapter chairman, made the appointment. All they're going to do is get 1000 members.

Ernest Walker has a like position in Yorba Linda. They're in for a lot of work between now and Nov. 28, but they're both the sort that like it.

WE HEAR news which should make residents of all coast cities and members of the Coast association very, very happy.

The army has decided to step in and help to control pollution of beaches by oil.

Just why the army should do the work, instead of the navy, we couldn't discover, but it has been officially announced that they're going to be very thorough in an attempt to stop tankers from dumping bilge in the San Pedro channel.

The Coast Guard is going to aid the army in enforcement work, so it looks like we may be able to go swimming soon without having to soak our dogs in kerosene afterward.

Let the Italians and Ethiopians fight it out and smear the landscape with shell holes and human splinters, but that doesn't stop the Garden club from going right ahead with its splendid efforts in beautifying Laguna. Of course they may do such a good job of it that some foreign country may some day try to move in by force, driven by the irresistible urge to bask in luxuriant splendor; yet in the meantime, Mrs. Malinda Woodworth, president of the club, exerts her influence along peaceable lines.

Organized six years ago, the first meeting of the club was held at the late Frank Miller's cliff-side home in Arch Beach. From that moment on, membership and activities of the club have steadily grown. Mrs. Fern Burford was elected the first president, and held that office for three years. Mrs. R. L. McCrea was the second president. Mrs. W. B. Palmer, third; and now Mrs. Woodworth is leading the organization, with over 150 paid-up members, and many honorary members.

Besides the monthly meetings on the fourth Friday of every month, special activities every year include the flower show in April at Hotel Laguna. This is an event that creates not only local interest but attracts visitors from Santa Ana, Newport, Los Angeles, Pasadena, Redlands and Riverside.

Garden tours are organized several times a year with visits to such beauty spots as the Bixby Memorial gardens in Santa Ana, Modjeska's ranch, the Ross gardens in Newport, and many other private gardens.

Frequently well known speakers are obtained for the meetings. Last week, for example, Douglas Donaldson from Hollywood, recognized authority on color, spoke to the group. Grace W. Hosmer talks once a year.

There is an active tree committee with Dr. Spencer Miller acting as the guiding force. This committee co-operates with the city council on street improvements and beautification.

The garden club is one of the most successful and active organizations in Laguna, and its worthy accomplishments are encouraged by the harmonious co-operation and single-mindedness of purpose, of the members.

At the Lions club meeting Thursday night had opportunity of observing John C. Gibson, local banker, in the playful act of wheedling dimes out of tardy members. And when a fine is in order, John is right ready with the change. Here's the system. He keeps at his elbow a small wooden box that has two important features. The first is the slit to drop the coin through; the second is the handle that when pumped issues a commanding "coo-coo!" When a coo-coo sounds in somebody's ear that means, brother you're going to spare a dime!

Bob Monks, co-banker, openly accused Mr. Gibson of defrauding the club out of five packs of mentholated cigarets that were sent to him for specific advertising purposes. Only one pack could be produced, which was promptly dissipated around the table. Where were the other four packs? That was the question. Well, it was finally admitted that they had been left unattended at the bank for a few minutes and definitely disappeared. Mr. Gibson complained that he had difficulty in even recovering one package. But the cigarets were advertised and it was assumed by all present that the only safe commodity in a bank is money.

Albert Johnson, ex-congressman and newspaperman from the state of Washington, delivered a splendid talk on "Immigration." The introduction was ably made by Paul Jackson; Clyde Mackey, president of the club, acted as chairman.

News of the death of S. A. Hayward, fatally injured in an automobile accident in Santa Ana Thursday, came as a shock to the fellow-members of the Lions club at the conclusion of the meeting.

Question: what has become of all the doorbell-ringers? Have to go down town to buy everything now, when about a year ago as many as three would arrive during the noon hour alone. They sold everything from pins and needles to kitchen aprons and baby bibs. Maybe the New Deal bought them all rocking chairs.

AHA! WEEK-END HOUSE CLEANING!

TIDYING up things in the sports cupboard:

Don't envy those world series ticket scalpers who are selling their ducats for the purchase price plus five more purchase prices. One of them was nabbed and convicted the other day in Chicago and was fined $100 and costs; others are due for a similar dose now that officials have been able to make the court action stick.

Attention duffers: How would you like to know exactly how the spinning ball reacts when it strikes different kinds of grass? Be rather a help in getting out of the sand wouldn't it? Well, one Dr. John Mentieth of the United States golf association has devised a mechanical niblick. It plays the ball from the sand in the same way over and over again, entirely removing the human factor. Wonder why the professor has limited his invention to the niblick? For some like us he would pattern a whole dern bag full of sticks and we'd just go along with them to keep score.

We didn't see Al Bisignano last Monday night at the wrestling show; but we did see Ivan Mannagoff, the terrible Russian, a few weeks ago. Of him, the best thing we can say is that he is clean, orthodox and probably the kind of a boy you'd let your sister go out with. Orthodox wrestlers are as rare as grins on Joe Louis' map.

EX-NEWSPAPERMAN SEEMS TO BE DOING ALL RIGHT

YESTERDAY'S mixup in the world series between Umpire Moriarity and the Chicago Cubs, is really a good word for Ford Frick, the erstwhile newspaperman who became president of the National league this year. REDLANDS BEAT TECH, 32-0

PASADENA, Oct. 5. (AP)—Their second victory in a row was held today by the Redlands Bulldogs, who only a week ago upset the football world with a surprising 19 to 18 victory over Loyola. Redlands last night defeated Cal Tech, 32 to 0, in the Rose bowl.

TUSTIN CLUB HUMBLED BY GROVE, 6-0

Valencia Eleven Downs Puente, But Newport Loses to Claremont

Anaheim's Colonists, favored to repeat their championship football reign of last fall, are warning before they strike at County Prep league opposition Oct. 18.

Running in everyone but the water boy, Coach Dick Glover saw his Anaheim eleven bowl over Escondido, 32-12, at Anaheim yesterday in finer fashion than the Colonists smothered San Bernardino, 13-0, a week ago

Garden Grove decisioned Tustin, 6-0, in another non-league tussle at Garden Grove Johnny Ward's Argonauts, always stubborn against Bill Cole's elevens, scored in the final quarter on Kolb's 20-yard pass to Miwa, who raced 45 yards to the Tiller goal.

Valencia won at Puente, 26-13, but Newport Harbor fell before Claremont, 20-7. Orange beat San Juan Capistrano, 18-13, on the Capistrano grid while its Bees absorbed a 19-0 lacing from Santa Ana's lightweights at Orange.

CIRCUS MATMEN ARE OUT HERE

Determined to give Orange county mat followers a taste of real wrestling, Promoter Sampson is sending Ivan (The Terrible) Mannagoff and Al Bicignano to the post Monday night at the Orange County A. C. in a three-fall to a finish battle that should be minus the customary rough and tumble stuff of modern wrestling.

Bisignano made his debut here last week by beating Fred (Roughhouse) Carone.

Three weeks ago Mannagoff made fans forget wild and woolly wrestling with his sensational orthodox work against Paul Boesch. They went one hour to a draw without either scoring a fall.

Other bouts carded: Casey Kazanjian, ex-grid star from Stanford vs. Pat Fraley; Jumbo Jacobs vs. Tarzan Ekizian and Jose Valdez vs. Hugo Clapham.

CLEARER SKIES FOR SERIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 5. (AP)—Clear weather with slightly higher temperature was forecast today by J. R. Lloyd, government weather observer.

He foresaw a temperature of 50 to 52 at game time in the fourth battle of the world series between the Chicago Cubs and the Detroit Tigers at Wrigley field. Lloyd said he looked for a gentle northerly wind, not so brisk as the one which made the high fly balls hard to judge yesterday.

LOYOLA LIONS BEAT POETS, 33 TO 0

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5. (AP)—The football hopes of Loyola university today took new life as the result of a 33 to 0 victory of the Lions over Whittier college, the team that held the University of California to a 6 to 0 score.

Displaying the kind of football that was expected to carry them through a successful season, the Lions last night in the Gilmore stadium here before 20,000 persons ran roughshod over the Poets, scoring in each period.

The victory for Loyola, incidentally, gave a boost to the Redlands university team. The Bulldogs staged the biggest local upset of the season last night when they defeated the Lions, 19 to 18.

HOLZHAUER TO FIGHT HERE

Ready to sign Lupe LeMon, but the latter showing no inclination of stepping into the ring with Bud Holzhauer, the "Blond Bomber" of the amateurs, officials of the Orange County Athletic club are seeking to match either Jack Wallbridge of Compton or "Fighting" Frankie Herrera with the Long Beach heavyweight for Thursday night's scheduled four round main event.

The long delayed appearance of Holzhauer should attract a capacity crowd in spite of the switch in opponents.

Series Turns Rowdy As Ump Chases Trio

By PAUL MICKELSON

CHICAGO, Oct. 5. (AP)—Umpire George Moriarty, a hard-boiled Irishman who wouldn't budge an inch for any "dangerous Dan McGrew," has turned the 1935 World Series from a cream puff festival into a vituperative barrage that has forced Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis to order a sweeping investigation.

The battle of vituperation was between big George and the bristling Chicago Cubs, who lost the first round yesterday, when the veteran umpire from the old school of Ty Cobb and Frank Chance chased three of them from the bench under a shower of words that caused the National league champions, headed by Manager Charlie Grimm, to make a vigorous protest to Commissioner Landis.

The fight between the American league umpire, himself a Chicago resident and a former Cub player, started in the first series game at Detroit when he warned the Cubs to "lay off" big Hank Greenberg, Tiger first baseman.

It subsided until yesterday when the Cubs, enraged by a close play at second on First Baseman Phil Cavarretta, swarmed around Moriarty and inflamed his temper up by baiting him with words. Moriarity chased Manager Grimm, Captain Elwood English and Outfielder "Tucker" Stainback from the bench.

"They started it and they can finish it," said Moriarty. "No ball player can call me the names they did and get away with it. I told Grimm at Detroit if I heard any more such profanity as they yelled at Greenberg that I'd chase five of them off the bench with Grimm leading the procession. And it still goes."

Grimm protested to Landis that Moriarty had cursed Billy Herman.

"Billy told me he called him a vile name," said Grimm, "so I told the judge about it. Even an umpire has no right to swear at a ball player. We don't have to stand for it."

Ford Frick, National league president, occupied a box behind the Cub dugout and said that Moriarty's language was "very vile."

LEYVAS SCORES OVER DANO

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5. (AP)—Another hurdle in his dash toward the top of the pugilistic realm had been cleared today by Bobby Leyvas, sensational Mexican bantamweight from Yuma, Ariz.

Leyvas last night before a packed house at the American Legion stadium scored a decisive 10-round victory over Pablo Dano, Manila, P. I. The victory was the Mexican's eleventh in a row since he turned professional six months ago.

"SEA ANGLER" STILL OPERATING

The "Sea Angler" and several other live bait boats continue to cruise to offshore waters daily—the "Sea Angler" leaving at 3 a. m. The boats have definitely swung back to the Coronado islands after several days cruising to the "Twelve Mile" and other locations.

Deep sea anglers planning to come down to San Diego over next week-end may be definitely assured that the "Sea Angler" will be operating. It is the intention of the Star & Crescent management to keep the boat in service at least another week and there is a real probability, if conditions are satisfactory, that the "Sea Angler" may be running until last season's date, Oct. 20. Those who went fishing out of San Diego last October remember we had some splendid sport.

The "Sea Angler's" records for the first week of October last year was 1263 yellowtail and 155 bluefin tuna. Second week saw tuna taken. Third week's score: 300 yellowtail and 350 bluefin 350 bluefin tuna and 250 yellowtail. If this October is half as good there can be no reason for quitting!

U.S.C. FROSH RUN WILD IN BOWL FRAY

Trobabes Outgain Cook Eleven, 345 Yards To 151; Loss Aids Dons

Perhaps they did more good than harm, but anyway the University of Southern California's devastating freshmen crushed Santa Aan's Dons, 30-0, in football before approximately 3000 fans at the Municipal bowl last night.

Since their Eastern conference season debut with Riverside's champions is only a week away, the Dons obviously will profit from all the punishment dished out by the Trobabes, who uncovered glaring weaknesses in Santa Ana's defense which must be ironed out if Bill Cook's Junior collegians hope to stop Merle Harris and Co. here next Friday.

It was the most decisive beating absorbed by the Dons since the Los Angeles outfit ran roughshod over them in '28.

Great Running Attack

The Trojan yearlings smothered Santa Ana with a destructive running attack that was so effective they did not make an attempt to gain through the air. They amassed 322 yards from scrimmage on runs, only 23 from passes. The Dons rolled up 102 yards on runs, 49 on passes. The Trobabes had the edge in first downs, 15 to 8.

McCarter to Greschner

Santa Ana came within a hair of scoring twice on long passes from Oliver McCarter, quarter, to Bill Greschner, left end. Greschner broke into the open both times, but dropped the ball—once when he was over the goal. It was just a streak of hard luck for Greschner, who ordinarily nails the ball anywhere near him. Late in the fourth quarter he caught a pass over the goal from McCarter, but a 5-yard offside penalty robbed the Dons of a touchdown.

How the Trobabes scored:

First quarter—Quarterback Joe Herbert fumbled Ambose Schlinder's long punt, and Stanley, Trobabe end, fell on the ball over the goal for a touchdown. Stanley missed the conversion on a kick.

Second quarter—Schlinder, the all-Southern California prep back, broke off tackle on the first play from his own 12 and rambled 88 yards to score. Selling missed the conversion on a kick. The Trobabes drove from Santa Ant's 37 on four successive first downs for a third score before the half ended, 18-0.

Third quarter—Haas, a tackle, intercepted a stray pass and raced to Santa Ana's 29. Orv Matthews, Oklahoma flash, scored from the 25-yard line on second down with a right-end sweep.

Fourth quarter — Matthews scored on a line plunge from the 4-yard mark after a drive of four first downs from the Trobabe 31. His conversion kick was blocked.

BEARS OUT TO BEAT GAELS

BERKELEY, Oct. 5. (AP) — Directed to use everything they have "just to win the old ball game," the California Bears take the field against St. Mary's college at Memorial stadium this afternoon before an expected 65,000 fans.

Outweighing the Bears 16 pounds per man on the line and 10 pounds in the backfield, St. Mary's rules as favorite to win the season's first "natural," but many hold that California's traditional fight spirit against the Gaels will bring them through on top. Last year St. Mary's won, 7 to 0. The preceding season, with little Floyd Blower starring in the backfield, California squeezed out a 14 to 13 victory.

DOUBLES PLAY BEGINS HERE

Play in the annual Orange county mixed doubles tournament, conducted by the Santa Ana Tennis club, will begin on the Frances Willard Junior high school courts tomorrow morning.

Miss Josephine Cruickshank, one-time fifth-ranking feminine star in the United States, and Johnny Cress, Santa Ana, are the defending champions. Some of their most spirited competition is expected from Mrs. Gilmore Ward and Toby White, Santa Ana netters who won the Bell Invitational last week.

Anaheim, Fullerton, Garden Grove and Laguna Beach will be among the communities represented in addition to Santa Ana, the host.

ROTH EXTENDS CANZONERI

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP)—The lightweight fistic crown rode jauntily though a trifle askew today above the brow of Tony Canzoneri.

The grinning 26-year-old veteran of the ring kept his title in a slashing encounter with sturdy Al Roth of the Bronx, but he took a sound beating in the last three rounds of a roaring climax. A crowd of 14,210 paid nearly $40,000.

RAIN BOTHERS BRONCOS

SEATTLE, Oct. 5. (AP)—The possibility of rain was the chief fear of the Santa Clara Broncos in their non-conference football game here today against the University of Washington Huskies. The weather man forecast cloudy, unsettled weather, and a dry turf could not be promised the tricky speedsters from the south.

"If the field is wet, we won't have a chance," declared Coach Clipper Smith.

PREP ELEVEN TRIMMED AT INGLEWOOD

Bad Breaks Cost Santa Ana Victory Against Sentinels, 7 to 2

By PAUL WRIGHT

Christmas is three months away, but Sammy Saint was a Santa Claus in grid toggery at Inglewood yesterday.

Decisively outgaining their Green and White rival, and enjoying three royal opportunities to score, Santa Ana High school's football cohorts played in hard luck, as Dick Arnett's Bay league Sentinels annexed an undeserved 7-2 victory.

They drove from their own 44 to within three yards of a touchdown in the second period, but a fumble cost them a probable score; they broke Capt. Erwin Youel, left end, far out in the open in the third quarter, but a poorly-directed pass sailed over his head; they completed a beautiful 23-yard pass from Ralph Blower to Warren (Whitey) Mann in the waning minutes of play for a touchdown that was disallowed because Blower was not 5 yards back of scrimmage. Yes, the Saints had a very luckless afternoon.

Score on Lateral

The Sentinels, with their modified Notre Dame shift, clicked beautifully in the first quarter, while the Saint backs, a bit nervous, fumbled all over the lot. Inglewood drove to its touchdown a few minutes after the opening whistle. On three running plays Halfback Bruno earned a first down to the Saint 30. Quarterback Hyduke passed to End Berry for a first down to the 19, and Boone and Bruno ploughed through for another first down to the six. Two more plunges by Boone planted the pigskin on the three. Boone then received a lateral and shot off right tackle for a touchdown. Bruno chalked up the conversion on a sweep around the left wing.

Those six points against them added new life to Bill Foote's Saints. Three successive first downs, gained on effective plunges by Fullback Musick and Halfback Len Bock and two passes down the middle from Carroll Joy to Youel, carried Santa Ana from its 44 to Inglewood's 13. Musick hit right tackle for three yards, and Bock went over the left side of the line for six. Joy sneaked over a yard to the three, but fumbled on fourth down when he probably had enough interference to reach pay dirt.

Saints Score Safety

Hyduke faded back to punt on third down, but received a bad pass from center, Tackle Bob Reid and half the Saint line rushing in to down him for a safety that changed the score to 7-2.

The third period was as tame as a house kitten, with only a 15-yard pass from Joy to Youel stirring up much excitement. There would have been plenty to cheer about if a pass had been anywhere near Youel when he broke into the open far down the left-field sidelines a few minutes later.

Joy, best Saint back on the field, who went to left end when Capt. Youel received a leg injury late in the game, broke loose for 22 yards in the fourth, and two short passes from Blower and Mann advanced the ball to the Inglewood 23, from where Blower completed the touchdown pass to Mann that was ruled out because Blower was not 5 yards back.

Crowther Looks Good

The Saints outgained the Sentinels, 142 yards to 76, and 7 first downs to 4. Seven passes accounted for 88 of Santa Ana's yards. . . . Jim (Red) Crowther, scrapy tackle, was down on punts like greased lightning, he and Youel turning in the best all-around game on the line. . . . Stafford apeared weak on running back punts at safety. . . . Blower is a real passer. . . . the Saints head for Santa Barbara for another non-league scuffle next Saturday.

TROY COMEBACK MENACED

Trojans Face C. P. Gridmen

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5. (AP) — Alonzo A. Stagg's little band of College of the Pacific football players stood menacingly on the University of Southern California's comeback trail today.

There was every indication that Coach Howard Jones' men feared Stagg today, putting reverse English on the time worn saw once repeated in Big Ten circles that "Stagg fears Purdue."

For the Trojans were fortunate to win a 6 to 0 victory from Pacific a year ago and their 9 to 0 win from Montana a week ago failed to indicate they could do much better today.

Pacific, with its wide-open attack, was expected to reveal as Montana failed to do, what manner of defense Southern California has this year. The game will be the first of the season for the Tigers.

'BARBARY COAST' HERE SUNDAY

THREE STARS FEATURED IN S. F. DRAMA

Miriam Hopkins, Edward G. Robinson and Joel McCrea in Film

Miriam Hopkins, Edward G. Robinson and Joel McCrea enact a strange and violent triangle against the tumultuous background of life on the "Barbary Coast," San Francisco's notorious mecca of adventurers from every corner of the globe, in the production of that title which opens at the Broadway theater tomorrow.

Miss Hopkins is seen as Swan, a beautiful girl who is stranded in this city of gold-mad, love-hungry men, and becomes queen of the Bella Donna, a notorious cafe run by Louis Chamalis, a man as ruthless as he is powerful.

Men risk their lives for a smile as she presides over Chamalis' crooked roulette wheel, but she has grown hard and cold as the diamonds with which he has decked her. Hating all men, she suddenly meets a man from another world, Jim Carmichael, a young miner who has made his strike.

They fall in love and the Swan sees her life at the Bella Donna for what it is. But when Jim learns her identity he thinks she has been toying him and experiences a bitter disillusionment. However, his faith in her is restored after a series of exciting and perilous adventures and the lovers escape the jealous wrath of Chamalis and face the future together.

Howard Hawks directed the film, the cast of which includes Walter Brennan, Frank Craven, Brian Donlevy, Clyde Cook, Harry Carey, Donald Meek and others.

Short subjects on the program include a Pop Eye cartoon, "Gotta Be a Football Hero," a sport reel, "Making Manhandlers," a colored popular science reel, and World News events.

'DIAMOND JIM' ENDS SUNDAY

"Diamond Jim," screenplay based on the life of James Buchanan Brady, first of the super-salesmen, the man who made the gay nineties gay, will close at the West Coast theater tomorrow after enjoying a most successful run here, it was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

The famous character, "Diamond Jim," was the man who wore $2,000,000 in jewels; who offered Lillian Russell $1,000,000 to marry him; who made a fortune of $12,000,000 from a start of $20; who gave millions to charity and friends, and steel cars to America; who ate six times as much as any other man, and who was the most amazing character in America.

Short subjects on the program include a color cartoon, "Bird Scouts"; Screen Snapshots; a sports reel, and World News events.

ACADEMY STAR'S NEW MOVIE TO OPEN HERE ON OCT. 13

"She Married Her Boss," a picture hailed as a great successor to "It Happened One Night," which won for Claudette Colbert the Academy award, produced by the same company and starring Miss Colbert with Melvyn Douglas and Michael Bartlett, will open at the Broadway theater on Sunday, Oct. 13, it was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

In "She Married Her Boss," Miss Colbert is seen as an ultra-competent secretary who indiscreetly falls in love with her boss. The title gives some hint of what happens, but not enough, for the marriage is only the start of her grief. Michael Bartlett, as a light-hearted young man-about-town, does his best to lead her out of her trouble and into his arms.

An outstanding feature of this program will be the showing of the special MGM featurette, "The Perfect Tribute," starring the noted character actor, Charles "Chic" Sale, in a dramatic impersonation of Abraham Lincoln.

BING CROSBY FILM OPEN ON OCT. 7

A delightfully refreshing bit of romantic tomfoolery, "Two for Tonight," with Bing Crosby heading the cast, will open at the Broadway theater on Oct. 17, Manager Lester J. Fountain announced today.

GEORGE WITHERS DIES

ATLANTA, Oct. 5. (AP)—George H. Withers, 78, grandfather of Jane Withers, juvenile motion picture actress of Hollywood, died Friday. He was a retired machinist.

They Star In 'Barbary Coast'

Joel McCrea and Miriam Hopkins, above, are starred with Edward G. Robinson in "Barbary Coast," a colorful, adventurous and romantic drama of America's last frontier which opens tomorrow at the Broadway theater.

Arnold Plays 'Diamond Jim'

RAFT PLAYS NEW ROLE IN 'EVERY NIGHT AT EIGHT'

Displaying his talents in an entirely new kind of screen portrayal, George Raft comes to the screen of the West Coast theater on Monday in "Every Night at Eight," as an egotistical, yet humanly sympathetic dance-band leader. This feature shows with another feature, "Two Sinners," picturization of Warwick Deeping's comedy drama, "Two Black Sheep."

"Every Night at Eight" is a romantic comedy drama set to music and is the screen's first presentation of a radio amateur hour. Alice Faye, Frances Langford, Patsy Kelly, the Three Radio Rogues and Walter Catlett are in the supporting cast. The story concerns a group of young singers who try out on an amateur radio hour program. They meet with dismal failure but through the help of another amateur, Raft, they are shot overnight to success. Six new song hits are introduced in the film.

Otto Kruger, Martha Sleeper, Minna Gombell, Ferdinand Munier and Cora Sue Collins are featured in "Two Sinners," a human and compelling story of a man who murdered in passion, and who found the world turned against him when released from prison 15 years later. How he eventually finds the love and sympathy he needs makes for an absorbing story of realistic nature.

Selected short subjects include a Betty Boop cartoon, "Betty Boop and Grampy," and World News events.

LET'S READ A NEW BOOK!

Book Reviews from the Public Library

By VERNA RAMSEY

PRESIDENT MASARYK TELLS HIS OWN STORY, recounted by Karel Capek.

This book is Karel Capek's account of what Masaryk says about himself. In a number of intimate conversations the President gave Capek the story of his life and discussed his views on such subjects as temperance, capital punishment, and national defense.

Thomas Masaryk is a scholar, humanist, liberator, and winner of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation medal. The fact that he holds his position at the head of a new democratic republic, including three or four nationalities and several varieties of Christians, shows that he is a man of remarkable ability and tact.

Few living men can have such a varied store of memories. Fewer have a profundity of thought enabling them to place as valuable an interpretation on them as is found in this book.

VEIN OF IRON, by Ellen Glasgow. The vein of iron is the will to live, the integrity and fortitude which draws generations together. This is the intense theme of Ellen Glasgow's honest picture of modern life. This is a picture that has no space for evasions or sentimentality.

The Fincastle family had lived for generations in the Great Valley, originally settled by Scotch Presbyterians. They were part of its fields and streams and mountain peaks, of its religion, traditions, and unspoken laws. The story centers quickly in the love story of Ada Fincastle and Ralph McBride. It follows them through a tragic disappointment, a war separation, brief prosperous years in a Tidewater city, and the poignant problems of the 1930's.

Ellen Glasgow allows the dramatic episodes to grow more and more profound until the narrative becomes an epic of human nature in conflict with fate.

COMEDY STARS BURNS, ALLEN

Two major features, with "Here Comes Cookie," starring filmdom's dizziest, but best-loved pair of comedians, Burns and Allen, and "The Public Menace," telling the adventures of a rough and tumble newshound who marries a ship's manicurist at their first meeting, will open at the Broadway theater next Thursday, it was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

A Santa Ana audience at the Broadway theater laughed uproariously at the crazy antics of Burns and Allen in "Here Comes Cookie" when the film was previewed here. In this film, as soon as Gracie's millionaire father turns over his vast fortune to her in order to protect his other daughter from a fortune hunter, Gracie immediately sets out to dispose of his wealth, first by refusing to give him a cent, and second by throwing open their spacious home to every hungry actor that comes her way.

Then Gracie decides to marry her sister's gigolo and turn all her money over to him. Before she marries, however, she plans a big show called "Gracie Allen's Flop," and converts the house into a beautiful theater.

How Counties In State Got Their Names

The story of how California counties derived their names is an interesting part of the history of the Golden State. Believing that the thousands of tourists who annually motor over the state's great highway system would like to know how the counties they visit came by their names, Director of Public Works Earl Lee Kelly has had prepared from state records a series of brief stories of the origin and meaning of the names of the counties of California, including a few salient facts about each county.

IMPERIAL COUNTY

Created Aug. 15, 1907. It derived its name from the Imperial valley, situated therein, and was organized from part of San Diego county.

Imperial, "The Winter Garden of America," has been transformed from a harsh and uninviting desert of cactus and sage brush to a veritable Garden of Eden. Imperial valley is the largest irrigated district in the world. A great portion of the county, the tenth largest in California, lies below sea level, but in the eastern section are the Chocolate mountains, and near San Diego county a chain of mountains extends south across the intermediate boundary and are considered among the most picturesque in Southern California.

In ancient times the valley was part of the Gulf of California, later being filled in with deposits and decayed vegetation brought down from the mountains in past ages by the Colorado river, forming a soil to be compared for productiveness with the Nile valley in Egypt. Salton Sea, covering an area 35 by 14 miles, remained but slowly is drying up. More than 515,000 acres are under irrigation in the county and many thousands of additional acres will be cultivated after the completion of Boulder dam.

Cotton production is an important industry with 22,165 acres new devoted to it. The leading crop is the Imperial valley cantaloupe with an annual value of approximately $13,000,000, while other melons shipped have an annual valuation of about $9,000,000. Lettuce is in second place as a distinct crop with a valuation of about $11,000,000 a year. Imperial is the tenth cattle-producing county of the state. Dairy products contribute more than $3,000,000 annually. Calexico, the Imperial gateway to Old Mexico, is the port of entry to Lower California. Statistics show that 8,000,000 persons and 2,400,000 automobiles cross the international boundary here annually. El Centro, the county seat, had a population in 1907 of 125; today it boasts 8434. Population: 60,903. Area; 4089 square miles.

"I believe I know what happened. The hose was put in the big barrel of water just back of this tent."

"Then why did you let your ducks soak us like this?" the people began to murmur angrily.

"It was a prank," said Willy Nilly.

"A pretty prank, indeed," said the people. "That's a fine thing to say. To let us get soaked and then say a prank has been played. Well, well, well, that is nerve indeed!" So the complaints were made.

"Who dropped the hose into the barrel of water?" shouted one man.

"That is what I am going to tell you," said Willy Nilly. "We came here to perform for the owner of this side-show. We hoped to make money for him and for ourselves and to give all of you your money's worth."

"Why all this talk without doing anything for us?" shouted one of the audience.

"It's only through talk that I can explain," said Willy Nilly.

"Run him out! He's crazy," some of the people shouted. "He's the guilty one and it's all because he's crazy. He looks odd enough with his goat-like ears and his queer friends."

And the cry went up: "He's crazy! Run him out!"

SEWING PROJECT DINES WPA HEADS

Gathering for a picnic dinner, the SERA sewing project, under Mrs. Nellie Stroh, which has been disbanded for the past six weeks, honored heads of departments of the Orange county WPA Wednesday at Birch park.

Accredited to be the best sewing project in the state under SERA, the women hope to be back to work as a WPA project soon. Fred P. Jayne, chief of the professional, technical and women workers' division, was honored along with the WPA heads in a toast by Mrs. Stroh.

The SERA Hillbillies played, and an original song, written by Helen Mathews, was presented by the workers. On the committee with Mrs. Stroh were Besse Heinley, Ella Brewer, Gladys Buck, Beatrice Forey, Mae Codling, Gertrude Wilcox, Edna Flood, Maud Heald and Elizabeth Pennington.

BARBARA WINS PUBLICITY

She Got 2688 Inches of It

Barbara Rowland will never have to write a book about her experiences as California's Outdoor Girl of 1935, won at the Salinas Rodeo in July. For newspaper editors throughout the United States and Hawaii have already done it for her.

This was revealed yesterday when two Journal reporters took 55 minutes out to measure the 2688 column inches of publicity which has appeared about Barbara Rowland exclusively since she began her competition for the title.

That amounts to 95,000 words, enough for a good-sized novel, and is just the size of a 16-page 8-column newspaper.

Eleven rolls of newspaper clippings pasted on rolls of paper three feet wide and from 10 to 30 feet long, were sent to Mayor Fred Rowland from Salinas Rodeo headquarters on the entire event. More than 26,000 inches of publicity was contained. Of that, 2688 inches had been about Barbara alone.

From Miami, Fla., to Maine, city editors said "run her picture today." The Philadelphia Ledger carried a two-column spread. The New York Mid-Week Pictorial had a rotogravure picture. In Bridgeport, Conn., Dallas, Texas, or Minneapolis, newspaper readers picked up their evening papers to find pictures of the Santa Ana girl who was "tops" in California.

DOUBLE SURPRISE AT HOUSE-WARMING AND SHOWER PARTY

Double surprises were in order last night when a house-warming and layette shower were given at a party at the new home of Mrs. Richard Metz, 723 Hickory.

Mrs. Metz was presented a novelty corsage of dimes by Herbert Birt from the guests and the shower was given to Mrs. Herschel Musick. The corsage had been made by Mrs. Birt and was given to the hostess to purchase something for her new home.

The hostess moved to the new residence about two months ago from 609 East Sixth street. Both of the honored guests had been told that the party was for the other honoree, so that the double celebration was a surprise to both.

In the play of 500, Mrs. James Provence and Mrs. Earl Lepper took the prizes. Cootie awards went to Mrs. Cecil Herron and Mrs. P. A. Ozbirn.

A salad and dessert course was served by the hostesses, including Mrs. Metz, Mrs. Leonard Musick and Mrs. Lawrence Brown.

Others present at the party were Mesdames P. A. Ozbirn, Clara Pevehouse, Will Armstrong, Mary Lindley, Leonard Hanaker, Glenn MacLane, Norman Cowdry, Leonard Brown, Sidney Messenger, Lillian Linsday, Cecil Herron, Howard McHenry, Herbert Birt, James Provence and Harry Jessee of Santa Ana, Mrs. Lewis Trapp of Whittier, and Mrs. Leonard White of Cypress.

HOLD ANAHEIM MAN AS SUSPECT IN KIDNAPING

Jesse Connor, 34, Negro, was arrested at his home, 514 East Broadway, Anaheim, yesterday by Deputy Sheriff James Ragan, and held for Los Angeles police on charges of robbery. Connor assertedly was involved in the kidnaping and robbing of La Francis Jordan, Los Angeles Negro fireman, Thursday night.

Jordan, who was found lying at the side of the road near Sunset Beach early yesterday, identified a picture of Connor as being one of the men involved in the crime. Connor was arrested, and with three other Negroes was placed in a police showup here. Jordan immediately picked him out as one of the four who had kidnaped him and left him unconscious the night before.

Still standing near Pensacola, Fla., is a forest of liveoaks planted 100 years ago by the administration of President John Adams to produce timber for naval ships.

YOUNG G.O.P. HEARS ATTACKS ON ADMINISTRATION POLICIES

HOOVER WILL MAKE TALK TONIGHT

Requa Raps Roosevelt In Address Before Group at Oakland

OAKLAND, Oct. 5. (AP)—New attacks on administration policies were hurled by speakers today as young republicans from western states considered possible planks for a 1936 platform and eagerly awaited an address by former President Herbert Hoover.

The former chief executive's speech was planned as a climax tonight to the conference of delegates from 11 far western states. It will be Mr. Hoover's first talk to a party gathering since he left the White House.

Requa Raps Roosevelt

Meanwhile, the charge that President Roosevelt's policies, unless halted, will "come dangerously near the destruction not only of our fiscal system but also of the fundamentals on which the government was founded," was made in a speech prepared for a breakfast meeting by Mark L. Requa, republican national committeeman for California.

He said there are without question men in Washington "in high official positions who have deliberately set out to accomplish this destruction."

Requa's remarks are added to those last night of Edward M. Shattuck, general convention chairman, who said in a welcoming address that the real issue facing the nation is whether there is to be "further experimentation at a cost which clearly leads to bankruptcy."

Strikes at Pledges

Striking at alleged breaking of democratic campaign pledges and promises made in speeches by President Roosevelt, Mr. Requa declared reversal of pre-election promises might be justified if they had promoted public welfare.

"But they have not promoted public welfare," he said. "On the contrary they have had a profoundly depressing effect. Recovery has been retarded. Endless wastes of public funds have taken place; the constitution has been cynically disregarded. We have been plunged into endless turmoil and strife, that if it is not corrected, may well lead us to the brink of the precipice, at the bottom of which lies chaos."

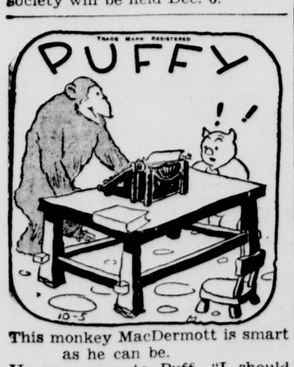

The breakfast meeting, starting the day's program, was called for delegates from all the represented states—California, Washington, Nevada, Utah, Oregon, Montana, Wyoming, New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado and Utah.

4 JOIN HISTORY SOCIETY HERE

The first fall meeting of the Orange County Historical society was held in the Bowers museum here last night, and four persons were elected to membership. The new members are Mrs. W. T. Newland, Huntington Beach; Mrs. Frank E. Coulter, 826 South Ross street, Santa Ana; Dr. Margarete Baker, 1624 North Baker street, Santa Ana, and E. P. Stafford, 118 Edge-reading of four papers dealing with historical subjects. The "Story of the Squatter's League," as told by H. C. Head, was presented by E. S. Sparks. A paper entitled "Santa Ana Reminiscences," was read by E. P. Stafford. Allan Goddard gave a talk on Indian village excavations, and a paper concerning Pio Pico's flight from California in 1846 was read by T. E. Stephenson.

The program consisted of the wood street, Santa Ana.

A map depicting the old Spanish land grant known as the Rancho Santiago de Santa Ana had been prepared for the organization, and Mrs. C. E. Roberts gave a talk on the subdivision of the property. The next regular meeting of the society will be held Dec. 6.

THREE SANTA ANA STUDENTS NAMED IN COLLEGE CHOIR

Three Santa Ana students at Pomona college were named to the college choir this week with the announcement made by Prof. Ralph H. Lyman, director. The local trio included Norman Watson, Betty Dunton and Marian Brownridge.

Beginning practice last week the choir, which this year numbers 170 voices, opened rehearsals for "We Beheld His Glory," cantata written by Joseph W. Clokey, Pomona college organist. The cantata will be given during the Christmas season with students taking solo parts, according to Professor Lyman.

20 YOUNG MEN FROM THIS AREA JOIN ARMY IN MONTH

Twenty young men from Santa Ana and vicinity enlisted in the regular army during September, Sergeant Michael J. Joyce, local recruiting officer, said today. The majority of this group went to army units in the Hawaiian and Philippine islands, while the others went to Fort MacArthur and the presidio at Monterey.

Sergeant Joyce said that during October, 20 openings will be available for Hawaiian service, and 10 each at Fort MacArthur and Monterey. There is a wide selection of branches from which to choose, he explained. The recruiting station is located in room 207 of the postoffice building.

TO CONTINUE STATE FUND INQUIRY

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 5. (AP)—Inquiry into the reported $24,000 shortage in the state treasury will be transferred to San Francisco for one day at least, District Attorney Otis D. Babcock, announced today.

He said J. Francis O'Shea, his assistant, will go to the bay city Monday to look into the personal bank accounts of Charles G. Johnson, state treasurer.

The county grand jury which devoted one day this week to examining bankers who, published reports said, testified concerning Mr. Johnson's financial accounts, will meet again next week after the bankers have further scrutinized their records.

Mr. Johnson has charged that William B. Shearer, the missing state treasury cashier, is responsible for the entire shortage which investigators in the state treasury have traced back as far as 1931.

Deputy Attorney General Jess Hession announced he has an affidavit from Shearer signed April 9, 1935, in which Mr. Shearer takes full responsibility for the January shortage of $5000.

The affidavit was given to Hession by Mr. Johnson in steps being taken to file a suit against a bonding company.

MOONEY BACK TO PRISON FOR PAPERS

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5. (AP)—Seeking documents he holds are pertinent to his habeas corpus petition for freedom, Tom Mooney went back to San Quentin today. He was to return to his county jail cell here tonight.

Mooney asked, and received, permission to revisit his state prison cell to obtain papers he has kept or gathered during the last 18 years to bolster his contention before a state supreme court referee that he was convicted of bombing the 1916 Preparedness day parade on perjured testimony.

HENDRICKSON AGAIN HEADS V.F.W. HERE

Re-electing Glenn D. Hendrickson commander, members of Ernest Kellogg post of the V. F. W. selected officers last night at their meeting in the K. of P. hall.

E. T. O'Mailia was chosen senior vice commander; James Sullivan, junior vice commander; P. E. Caley, chaplain; John Shaw, quartermaster; N. E. Meister, officer-of-the-day; Roy B. Miles, judge advocate; Mr. Sullivan, delegate to county council, and Mr. Miles, alternate delegate.

Appointive officers will be named before installation in November, Comander Hendrickson said.

Recruits intiated were L. O. Allen, Bert Hulme and R. S. Clark. Hans Serritzlew, aide de camp to the department commander, R. F. Nichols, and Harold Lister, San Bernardino county council commander, both of Ontario, were visitors, along with guests from Orange and Anaheim.

The group agreed to enter a float in the Armistice day parade in Anaheim.

INJURED IN FALL OFF DERRICK

A 30-foot fall from a platform on the Continental Oil company derrick on Sullivan street near First street, Santa Ana, last night resulted in serious injury to Rex Pierce, company employe, living in Long Beach.

An ambulance from Winbigler's mortuary took Mr. Pierce to the Long Beach Community hospital where X-rays revealed possible fractured vertebra near the base of the spine. With the exception of possible internal injuries, Mr. Pierce escaped with only severe bruises and the injured back.

LAST 'LAST MAN' PASSES

Vet, Lone Club Member, Dies

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 5. (AP)—The Last Man's club of Company B, First Minnesota Volunteer Infantry, was only a Civil War time memory today.

Capt. Charles M. Lockwood of Chamberlain, S. D., 93-year-old Civil war veteran and last surviving member of the famous organization, died late last night at the Minnesota soldiers home hospital, where he had spent his last three winters.

WHAT ARE 'SANCTIONS'?

British Office Defines Term

(By the Associated Press)

What are sanctions?

A good many persons are asking that question these days as the League of Nations council considers their use in an effort to halt the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

Here is the way the British Royal Institute of International Affairs defines the word:

"A 'sanction' is the name which legal writers give to measures for securing obedience to law. Sanctions can take the form of the infliction of penalties for a breach of law that has been committed, or they may consist in measures taken for the actual prevention of a threatened breach.

"Sanctions operate in two ways: negatively, in that knowledge of the will and power to apply them may deter a would-be wrong-doer from transgressing the law; positively, in that their application checks a wrong-doer in the act of transgression or compels him, after a transgression has been committed, to submit to law and deprive him of the fruits of his transgression."

DRIVING TEST RESULTS IN:

Injury, Jitters, No License

Hugh Plumb, Tustin, has a lame back and bruised hip, Mrs. Bertha Miller, 719 East Fifth street, Santa Ana, does not have a driver's license, and Highway Patrolman Horace Inge has the jitters.

Yesterday Mrs. Miller went to the highway patrol office to take a driver's test for the purpose of procuring a driver's license. She passed the verbal part of the test in fine shape. The next step was to see whether she could drive a car. Officer Inge, who was giving the examination, got into Mrs. Miller's car with her at the wheel.

They drove out the alley by the courthouse and around the block. When Mrs. Miller started to turn into the alley, she momentarily lost control of the car which ran into Mr. Plumb. Needless to say, Mr. Plumb was startled. Officer Inge saw that an accident was about to happen and grabbed the steering wheel and the emergency brake at the same time. That is why he has the jitters and Mrs. Miller does not have a driver's license.

Chief Campaigns Against This

It is just such accidents as those pictured above that Chief of Police Floyd Howard is trying to prevent in Santa Ana through the medium of his recently announced safety campaign. He is asking all drivers of Santa Ana and vicinity to sign a pledge to drive carefully in order to avoid such tragedies. According to figures released by the public safety department of the Automobile Club of Southern California, eight persons a day are killed and 125 injured by motor vehicles in California. Of last year's 32,739 accidents in California, the classifications illustrated above represent more than four-fifths.

CHICAGO PAIR TARGETS OF KIDNAPING

CHICAGO, Oct. 5. (AP) — The Chicago Tribune said today that federal agents and police have been engaged for weeks in attempts to capture kidnapers who allegedly have threatened to abduct Harold F. McCormick, chairman of the board of the International Harvester company, and William C. Cummings, president of the Drover's National bank.

Both men have been threatened, the paper said, unless blackmail payments were made.

The paper said that negotiations, by letter and by phone, have been carried on with the leader of the blackmailers for some time. Yesterday, it was said, police were concealed in the Cummings home in the hope that one of the gang would call for the $30,000 demanded.

The trap failed because the blackmailers did not call.

Miss Dorothy Lindsey Tells Engagement at Beta Sigma Phi Social Meeting

Box of Candy Breaks News To Group

Mrs. John Tessmann Is Speaker In Program; Birthdays Honored

Last evening was a very busy and happy one for members of Santa Ana Sigma chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, national literary sorority. After they went from the home of Miss Mary Louise Wallace on Cypress avenue to the home of Miss Dorothy Lindsey on South Van Ness street to surprise Miss Lindsey and Miss Kathryn Spicer on occasion of their birthday anniversaries, the doorbell rang at the Lindsey home. A large white and silver-wrapped box of chocolates tied with a spray of gardenias was brought in and disclosed the news of Miss Lindsey's engagement to Robert L. Callis of San Juan Capistrano.

Miss Lucie McDermott, chapter president, received the box, inside of which was a card with the names of the engaged couple. Miss Lindsey then displayed her lovely engagement diamond set in platinum and yellow gold. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Lindsey, 721 South Van Ness, and her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Callis of San Juan Capistrano.

A huge florist box presented to the bride-to-be proved to contain her favorite flowers, talisman roses, sent by her fiance. The engagement is the culmination of romance begun at Laguna Beach, where the sorority maintains a summer home.

Miss Mary Louise Wallace, program chairman, introduced the evening's speaker, Mrs. John Tessmann of the Santa Ana Junior college faculty, who spoke entertainingly on Mustapha Kemal.

After the meeting, the group was seated around a table covered with lace linens and centered with a crystal bowl of white roses and maidenhair fern flanked by tall white candles in crystal bases. A tiered wedding cake was given to Miss Lindsey, and a yellow and white birthday cake was presented to Miss Spicer. Both cakes were baked by Mrs. Lindsey. Peach ices and coffee were also served.

Assisting Mrs. Lindsey in hostessing were Miss Mildred Staples and Miss Wallace.

By ELLEN SNEBLEY

What do you think?

No, I'm not going to tell you anything, that is, for a paragraph or two—I'm asking you.

A conversation with a Santa Ana jaysee prof through one of whose classes I passed by a narrow margin a few years ago hinted me on this subject.

I began our chat by asking questions on "handedness," which is whether you're right or left-handed . . . sometime when you're not very busy, find some flat surface and put your elbows on it, together. Stick your hands straight into the air, little fingers next to each other, and see which little finger is higher in the air. That shows which "handed" you are. Only if the test works on me, I'm all mixed up, 'cause I showed righthanded, and I'm not!

Anyway, the talk drifted to why students don't study. The prof said: "Young people go to school because society and their parents force them to do so. And in going under pressure, they lose the willing spirit conducive to study. They seem to say: 'Well, here I am. Do what you can with me.'"

I remembered the Latin conquests I'd bluffed on, the three-hour assignments done after a fashion in 45 minutes—the shortcuts to tracing the blood vessels of formaldehyded frogs, and without bringing you to the point of tears, I realized how much more I could have learned, had my own attitude been different.

* * *

"But," the S. A. J. C. prof added, "your post-school days are the best for learning, after all. When you're in school, the teacher decides which verbs or countries or experiments must be done. When you're out of school, you can start in on anything that takes your fancy, and trace the subject as far as library reference books will take you. The whole world's store of knowledge is within the grasp of anyone who wills it to be his!"

* * *

Did you ever wonder, then, what you think? Or whether?

Too many picture shows, too many football games and radio broadcasts, and too many dances wear an individual's mind down to a point where aside from the "right answers" of the day, he's apt to be a victim of mental sleeping sickness. Maybe that's what's wrong—maybe. . . .

With a sudden jump, we turn to more cheerful topics, such as: dress shops' business is looking up just now, with scores of young damsels purchasing gowns for Tux'n Gown's first fall formal, Nov. 2 at the Country club. The Tattler asked a local male the other day whether he approved of the firm way in which "the better" shops insist on off-the-ground formal hemlines.

"Don't you like to see the girl friend's gold-sandalled toes again?" I asked, and was told that "It doesn't make much difference, excepting now I don't have to worry about stepping on her skirt and wrecking it and the evening."

Formally speaking, we nominate as the best-looking example of brunette sophistication in vivid evening things, Alyce Majors, with her smooth dark knot of hair . . . for your sophisticated, tallish blonde a junior collegienne whose datebook is pretty generally filled, Lorna Berry, late of San Clemente . . . for the vivacious redhead type, there's Julie Bingham, who's gorgeous in gold, or green . . . while Beth (Mrs. Don) Harwood wins high score as the willowy pure-blonde with clear-colored gowns . . . and Allene (Mrs. Rolla R.) Hays clicks to perfection as an example of attractive smallness, whether she wear green—or red.

Today we toast: Mrs. M. B. Wellington, who was so active in planning the Y. W. C. A. garden tours early in the summer, and who is now head of the women's division of the Community Chest—and don't forget to be home when the worker comes knock, knock, knocking at your door!

* * *

It's most appropriate that Margaret (Mrs. Ed) Hall should have been chosen head of the open house committee of the Community Chest, since in her own home she's such a gracious and entertaining hostess to so many friends.

Night football is quite the sport of the moment, isn't it? Visit the bowl some Friday evening, if you want to meet some of your good friends whom you haven't seen for ages'n aeons.

This is the season when crisp, smooth envelopes bring various thrills. They may announce an early fall marriage, of which there've been a good many, or more likely, they may invite the lucky recipient to a sorority rush affair. The Sigma Thetas are all of a dither, planning a formal tea for Sunday, the 13th, in the J. S. Smart home, and from all indications, it's to be a very swank party.

* * *

Today's little mystery: What local subdeb is carrying the torch for a local lad, in public, while making plans to announce her engagement, come Thanksgiving, to somebody else?

* * *

The innocent observer wonders whether you, too, noted the Ebell Juniors were 99.44 per cent brown felt-hatted at the opening meeting of the year.

* * *

Two popular Elizabeths are busy being community-minded, these days. One, Betty Smith, is muchly concerned with welfare sewing, while the other, Betty Guild, is Community Player-ing. Both are out working on the Comm. Chest drive.

* * *

A clever and witty Santa Annane, tea-cupping with The Tattler, suggested her pet plan: suicides should do something spectacular and worth-while to justify their suiciding. Like ridding civilization of one of its menacing or worthless individuals, and then killing themselves—thereby winning fame and gratitude for themselves. I pass on the suggestion, with the stipulation that no one starts his good deed by annihilating The Tattler.

What becomes of Santa Ana Junior collegians?

One answer is this: Jack Bergen, student of a few years ago, writes to several Santa Ana friends inviting 'em to join the American National club and become subscribers to its periodical, The American National . . . organiization non-profit, non-political . . . object, wiping out communism. Jack's associate editor.

Although she remembers a few years ago being greatly thrilled by a forced landing of the plane in which she and her husband were flying from London to Paris, and that the trip took 10 instead of two and a half hours, Mrs. J. D. Watkins, whose friendly, smiling brown eyes and seemingly unbounded energy win our admiration, says she's all for aviation, and doesn't think it any more unsafe than any other way of getting from here to there . . . oh, yes . . . The Thinkers brought that to mind.

* * *

And Oct. 25, the Country club will get underway after a lazily pleasant summer, by having a dance and Louise Shirey's orchestra to play for it. Isn't hers the only orchestra with a woman at the helm that's sounded really good to you? Or is it?

Bridge teas, evening bridges and dances will start next month, and for inveterate golfers, an "Old Timers' Tournament" is now being planned by Dr. Garland C. Ross, so the club will be busy very soon.

So saying, The Tattler ceases for the nonce.

Our man Saturday on the Cal campus at Berkeley reports he often sees Miss Agness Todd Miller, jaysee instructor who's studying toward her Ph.D. . . . and, to quote him: "Walter Winchelling around, we find that Ernestine Wakeham, former Spinster at jaysee, and Bill McDaniel, ex-bachelor and Don baseball coach and football man, are still that way . . . Dorothy Tedford and Alta Fisher have a mania for collecting signs to clutter up their room . . . Agnes De Busk, last year's Fiesta Dona and opera star, is waiting tables at the swanky Hotel Oakland and is keeping steady company with Jim Farquhar.

The word "tantalize" derives from Tantalus of the Greek myth.

She's ever so proud of the drop-shoulder yoke, and found it so easy to cut in one with the center panels which button in a straight line. Bodice and puffed sleeves gather easily and simply to the yoke. She had the simple skirt finished in no time and several bright velvet bows to match every color in her frock! Nice in a monotone, too! Complete, Diagrammed Marian Martin Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9612 may be ordered only in sizes 10, 12, 14, 16 and 18. Size 12 requires 2⅛ yards 54-inch fabric and ½ yard 5-inch ribbon.

"Do I Love Him if I Don't Want a Good-Night Kiss?" Asks Young Reader About Friend

By MARY STODDARD

Kissing takes the limelight again today but it isn't kissing in-laws that's worrying this reader. She doesn't know if she's in love because she doesn't want the boy she's been going with to kiss her. Time rarely has anything to do with people deciding they're really in love, even for serious, practical folks. This girl and boy with four years of friendship between them have missed the love angle.

Dear Miss Stoddard: I am a girl who has finished school and am working and living at home with my parents. I go out several times a week with a boy whom I have known and gone out with off and on for nearly four years.

I Say "No"

He wants to kiss me goodnight when he takes me home. I have been refusing him because I do not like to be kissed.

He treats me all right and doesn't attempt to "pet" but only wishes to kiss me goodnight.

I imagine, judging from the length of time we have gone around together, he cares for me to a certain extent and I like him, but I am not in love with him.

I should like your advice on the matter. Should or should I not kiss him goodnight?

PERPLEXED.

How About Other Friends?

You no doubt have young married women friends and you no doubt like their husbands as friends, but would you think it necessary to kiss the husbands "goodnight"?

You do not love the young man and you really do not want to kiss him, then why should you do it? Really I can see nothing perplexing about that.

Some day you will meet a man you really love and you'll probably marry him. Do you think he would think any more of you for having kissed other men just because they wanted you to?

Either keep your companionship with this man you like but do not love on a strictly friendship basis, or see him less.

CLUBWOMEN RALLY AT OPENING BOARD MEETING

Clubwomen from cities throughout Orange county rallied at La Habra yesterday to attend the first 1935-36 county federation of women's clubs board meeting in the Woman's clubhouse. Mrs. Archibald Edwards of Fullerton, county president, presided.

Dates of interest to clubwomen included the first fall board meeting of southern district federation at Laguna Beach, Friday, Oct. 11. The president, Mrs. John Stewart of Hemet, just home from a summer in Scotland, will discuss present conditions in Europe. The Orange county chairman of gardens, Mrs. J. E. Paul, plans a meeting at her home on Main street, Tustin, Thursday, Oct. 10, for garden section chairmen of the county and representatives of clubs interested in forming garden sections. Other chairmen of federation departments also brought brief announcements of their work. Mrs. F. King Joslyn of Balboa, chairman of history and landmarks, announced a program she plans to present when the regular meeting of the group is held at Placentia on Dec. 11.

Mrs. Laura Warren, new executive secretary of the Orange county Red Cross council, told of two projects being sponsored by the recently combined Orange county chapters. The first is a program for first aid on highways, the Santa Ana chapter district having already established six such stations, each including a stretcher, a first aid kit and a telephone, with a person in charge trained in Red Cross first aid. It is hoped in this way to help bring down the terrible total of high fatalities which last year reached more than 100,000, Mrs. Warren said. The second project is directed toward the 150,00 deaths occurring each year in homes. For this the council is asking for a chairman for every chapter in the county to lead a publicity campaign for the month of October, with Mrs. H. G. Blohm of La Habra, county chairman of public health, as federation head. It is planed to carry this work on through the schools as well as the homes.

Mrs. Florence Holmes, secretary for the Orange County Tuberculosis association, presented the work of this group and asked the suport of the women for the annual seal sale campaign to be started the day after Thanksgiving.

Mary Shanon Harrington of Los Angeles, featured speaker of the day, gave clubwomen an address on "The Art of Living."

Mrs. Frederick Schwartz, Monrovia, state federation chairman of the department of arts and crafts, was the afternoon speaker, emphasizing the real value to be gained from the hand crafts. She showed beautiful samplase of her art.

Mrs. S. W. Stanley, Tustin, county chairman of legislation, discussed the Orange county water bond plan.

La Habra musicians provided entertainment, Miss Helen Jackson playing organ solos in the morning and Rev. George Audelott singing with Miss Mary Johansen as accompanist in the afternoon. La Habra clubwomen provided an original skit at the luncheon hour.

New year books were distributed. Mrs. Edwards announced Oct. 31 the mid-year convention will be held at Buena Park, and urged all clubs to send the full quota of delegates.

Crow, was married to Glenn Carr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Carr of Huntington Beach, at a quiet wedding in the new home the couple have established at 519 Eighth street, Huntington Beach, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. The service was read by the Rev. Walter Cole, pastor of the Methodist church at Huntington Beach.

Attending them were Miss Gladys Cockerham, Garden Grove, and Gordon Kemp, Huntington Beach. Preceding the ceremony, Miss Marie Senst of Long Beach sang "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning," with her sister, Miss Alma Senst accompanying her at the piano and playing the wedding march.

The bride wore a rust-colored gown and corsage of gardenias. Miss Cockerham wore hunter's green with talisman roses.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Carr left for a short trip. Mrs. Carr for many years resided in Garden Grove, is a graduate of the high school, and for some time has been employed by the Home Oil company in Anaheim. Mr. Carr attended the Huntington Beach schools and is now employed in that city.

A 1 o'clock dessert course was served at a yellow lace over green-laid table centered with a flat dish of gourds and autumn leaves. Autumn nutcups were topped by miniature ghosts, and the menu furthered a Hallowe'en theme.

A variety of games provided entertainment. Mesdames Dean Lawrence and Charles Brown won game prizes and Mrs. Graybiel was given a guest gift.

'WAR BABIES' HELP STOCK INCREASE

Gains Up To One Point Registered; African 'Blasts' Feared

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP)—Various so-called "war babies" cut a few more teeth in today's brief stock market session and helped give the list another upward tilt.

Gains of fractions to a point or so predominated at the firm close. Transfers approximated 800,000 shares.

The activity was considerably ahead of last Saturday's proceedings, with the metals, motors, aircrafts and specialties leading the buying demand.

The war picture was still scanned with a little misgiving here and there, although, for the most part, hopes were still high that a general conflagration would be avoided and that peace would be arranged soon.

Among the livelier gainers were U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Kennecott, Anaconda, Cerro de Pasco, International Nickel, General Motors, Chrysler, Briggs Manufacturing, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Boeing, Hercules Powder, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, Westinghouse, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Western Union, Union Pacific, Schenley and National Distillers. A number of new highs for the year were recorded.

While observers familiar with European affairs continued of the opinion that hostilities may be kept within the boundaries of Ethiopia, it was recognized that powder kegs are plentiful within the vicinity of the African front and that any one of these can be touched off at any time.

The continued heavy inflow of gold from foreign countries to America, while disturbing to some bankers who envisage another drastic shakeup in foreign exchanges as the direct result, was seen by market followers as an important bullish factor. Hopes were expressed that much of this frightened money would eventually find its way into domestic securities.

WEEK'S CITRUS REVIEW

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5. (AP)—While valencia orange price averages per box strengthened during the past week at the eastern and middle western auction centers, lemon averages scored a gain of 74 cents per box to an average for the week of $4.92.

Valencias gained 2 cents to $3.21 on an increased volume of 45 cars to 662 cars for the week. Lemon volume dropped to 107 cars, a decrease of 16 cars over the previous week.

Daily averages of both oranges and lemons increased regularly with oranges showing the highest average of the week on Friday at $3.31. Lemons gained throughout the week but slipped off slightly at $5.09 the last day.

A public hearing on the new California-Arizona Citrus Marketing agreement will be held here at the State building on October 9, at 9:30 a. m.

The growers' advisory committee of the California-Arizona Citrus Marketing agreement announces next week's prorate as follows: 1120 packed cars of valencias and 20 packed cars of grapefruit.

The California Fruit Growers exchange, commenting on the market as a whole, says:

"The market on valencias strengthened at the close of the week. While prices showed a slight advance, volume of sales will be substantially higher than last week.

"The market on lemons is strong and higher, particularly on the larger sizes. Supplies of these larger sizes are light, which is responsible for the premium prices at which they are selling."

Orange averages per box for the week, with comparative figures for last week, and for the corresponding weeks of 1934 and 1933 follow:

MORNING STAR

— BY MARIAN SIMS —

SYNOPSIS: Emily Felton has lost her heart to Judith Carroll, her freshman roommate at Ardmore. But she has promised to marry Judith's brother David, only to find that the Carrolls have lost their beautiful plantation. David has disappeared into the interior of China, and Judith has married a man with a plantation "but not much hair on his head." Now Charlotte, Emily's new roommate, has taught her the value of thought and skepticism.

Chapter 12

DUTY

At the end of the first semester Emily found to her astonishment that she had been nominated for the executive council for the second half of the year.

"What on earth will I do?" she asked Charlotte in dismay. "I don't want to punish girls for doing things I'd probably do myself if I had the inclination and the opportunity."

They were in the "Soc." room at the library studying for the mid-term examination. It was peaceful and quiet among the books, and green-shaded lamps made pools of light upon the tables.

"If you'd go on feeling that way after you were elected it would be the best thing that ever happened to the council: heaven knows they're a sanctimonious lot.

"But you'd probably change. Being the governing class is like being in an automobile: when you're in the car a pedestrian is a worm of the dust, created especially to get in your way and slow you up; and when you're walking you think there ought to be a law against the wild-eyed maniac whose sole ambition is to get nowhere in a hurry.

"I think that's why government's so unpopular; you lose the common touch."

Emily laughed. "In that case I'd better refuse to run!"

"Go ahead and do it," Charlotte advised. "I'll guarantee to keep you in touch with the common herd and take you down if you get high-hat."

In the end she had taken Charlotte's advice, and been elected junior representative by a flattering margin. It was an illuminating experience, and she came back from the first "exec" meeting with an amused smile lurking about her mouth.

Charlotte grinned enquiringly. "Well?"

Emily flung herself upon the couch and contemplated the ceiling. The paint was peeling badly, she noticed, and she wondered idly why even the best of southern colleges had to fight so hard against poverty.

Charlotte understood. "So that's what the special session was about. Was there a definite victim, or was it the habit in general?"

"There was a victim, and she's campused for a month."

Charlotte lifted an eyebrow. "Only a month?"

"Yes. That was my influence. I almost made a scene, and I certainly disrupted the council's morale. I asked whose business it was if she did smoke and they were stunned. They said it reflected on the whole college, and I said, reflected what? They couldn't exactly say, because I happened to know that two of 'em smoke during week-ends off campus, where it isn't against rules, but where it reflects even more. In the end she got one month instead of two, and I got a black eye. I don't believe," she concluded thoughtfully, "that I'm going to be very popular."

Charlotte grinned engagingly. "As long as you're unpopular there's hope for you. And the culprits, who are the majority, after all, will adore you."

Emily looked affectionately at her. The most valuable education she had acquired at Ardmore, she thought for the hundredth time, had come from Judith and Charlotte.

Commencement that year had seemed once more the end of the world. "What on earth will I do without you?" she demanded desperately of Charlotte.

Charlotte was carefully packing her books to be shipped home. In two years her library had changed its titles but not its character, and she bestowed far more attention upon its safe transportation than upon packing her clothes.

She had stopped to read a paragraph in "Marius the Epicurean." "Just what you've done with me," she said imperturbably. "Personally, 'Im rather gratified with my handiwork."

Like Judith, Charlotte would say goodby casually, without flowers, but the goodby would be none the easier for that. Judith's reaction was instinctive; Charlotte could have put hers quite readily into words.

"The only way to show your respect for big moments," she would have said, "is not to sentimentalize over them."

She was right, of course. When the last box had gone and two-fourteen Graystone stood empty of everything but its memories and its association, you knew that you had to treat the moment lightly in order to bear it at all.

Once more William was waiting with the car—another car this time, a trifle longer and more shining than the other—and once more Emily was driving her roommate to the station.

They had talked about plans for the future, because you cannot look back in times like this without disaster; and made promises for letters and visits. Charlotte was trying for an advertising job in Birmingham, and had an excellent chance of getting it. Thinking of the freedom of such a life, Emily felt a faint stab of envy, and was suddenly ashamed of it.

"If you get the job," she said, "it means you'll go to work at once?"

Charlotte nodded. "Have to. Do you realize, infant, that I've invested three thousand dollars of somebody else's money in my education?"

Emily felt suddenly useless and ashamed. "But you're going to write often enough to show me that I haven't lost you?"

Charlotte looked steadily at her. "Don't you know you couldn't lose me if you tried?" She smiled. "Don't look so mournful. Before you can catch a breath you'll be graduating yourself! And by that time I'll have been out long enough to show you the ropes."

The car drew up before the station and Charlotte laid a hand on hers. "Don't get out: partir c'est un peu mourir, and I hate death bed scenes."

And then she was out of the car, and the broad back of William, who carried her suitcase, almost completely obscured her going.

As usual, Charlotte had been right. The next year was incredibly brief, and she remembered its milestones with casual pleasure. Wearing a hair-ribbon and a short dress on the day before you were invested, as a farewell to childhood. Investiture, when you donned a cap and gown for the first time, and complained bitterly about your high collar. Senior privileges, when you came in late to breakfast, or took a bath after hours, when the rest of the school was asleep.

Intimacy with the faculty, who accepted you almost as an equal, now. Your dinner-date in town with a man, even though the man were only Edwin. Hearing your name read out for Mortar Board, as one of those who had "contributed materially and spiritually to the up-building of the college," a designation that made you blush with a consciousness of your own unworthiness.

Senior Opera, which you wrote, with three other girls, and which was euphoniously entitled "Madame Buttermilk." Winning the 50-yard free-style swim, thereby acquiring enough points to give your class the cup.

And, for the last time, commencement, when you held for so short a time the center of the Ardmore stage; when your parents were the ones who, as Judith had said so long ago, sat around and doted. An eminent divine preached a brief and altogether charming sermon about the Changing Positions of Women in the World, and a gorgeous amethyst ring glittered against his snowy vestments and distracted your attention.

And almost before it was over you realized that the class below you had pushed you off the boards and that now they were The Seniors, who would occupy the stage and carry on the traditions that you had somehow thought of as your own—

"I'm a ramblin' wreck from Georgia Tech and a heluvan engineer," sang the orchestra leader, and the stag line shouted lusty approval and stamped its feet.

In a few minutes the tune would be the Washington and Lee Swing, and after that the Alabama schools would have their turn. And at each rendition the stag line would shout and stamp impartially.

Tomorrow the Elston Enquirer would describe the dance as "a brilliant climax to the many farewell affairs in honor of the college set." But to Emily this dance was poignantly sad.

It wasn't that she was unpopular. Her following never attained the unwieldly proportions of some of her friends', but it was almost constant. She danced exquisitely, even though she had never acquired the gift of casual flirtation, and the boys drifted to her as a traveler seeks a clear stream. They told each other that she didn't hand you a line, but you always knew where you stood.

(Copyright, 1935, by Marian Sims)

Emily wonders, tomorrow, just what to do with herself—and with Edwin.

'Von' Ends His Storming as He and Marlene Part Ways

Marlene Dietrich . . . her ex-mentor, directing someone else, finished a picture under schedule for the first time.

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 5.—When "Crime and Punishment" comes to the screen Josef von Sternberg is confident it will be regarded neither as his crime nor as audience punishment.

Columbia studio executives seem to feel the same way about it, for after seeing the picturization of Dostoyevsky's world-famous novel as directed by Marlene Dietrich's ex-mentor, they began talking contract with the redoubtable "Von"—a contract that would give them at least two of his films a year.

What amazes Hollywood about the picture, even before viewing it, is that Von Sternberg "brought it in" in a record time of 25 days, after being ahead of his schedule consistently throughout production. For a picture of this magnitude, the 30 days allotted for its completion seemed none too many for a director with less reputation for taking his own sweet time than Von Sternberg holds.

'No Gem'

In Hollywood finishing a picture ahead of scheduled time means more than it does outside the industry. Each day of production adds to the overhead cost. Von Sternberg has been noted for many things, but strict economy with studio money has not been one of them.

The once stormy director left Paramount after completing his last picture with Dietrich, "The Devil Is a Woman." Film men—at least the showmen among them—count the cost of a production not in dollars and cents expended on it, but by the dollars and cents it will draw into the theaters. The Dietrich film was costly, and to judge by preview reactions, no gem of an attraction.

As a matter of record, Von Sternberg exceeded his production schedule on that picture by only two days, making up for four days' arrears one Sunday when he confided to intimates his intention to "show those script-shooters." It was his final picture under a Paramount contract that was unique among directorial agreements. It gave him complete freedom from supervision, and dictatorial powers upon every phase of his productions from script to players.

Marlene and Gary

He found his new opportunity at the little studio where Grace Moore, earlier, had found hers. Here he was not free, to be sure, from supervision, but he seems to have found the arrangements to his liking. As usual, he was his own cameraman, and he gloried again in his pet theory about sets, using tones of grey and black exclusively. His idea is that other colors are wasted on a black-and-white camera, and more beautiful effects can be achieved his way.

While Von Sternberg finished his "Crime and Punishment," Marlene Dietrich began at Paramount her second picture directed by another than her Berlin "discoverer." Frank Borzage is at the helm on "The Pearl Necklace" (now called "Desire"), which reunites Dietrich and Gary Cooper for the first time since "Morocco."

RAIL HEAD BACK FROM VACATION

WM. M. JEFFERS

SAN PEDRO, Oct. 5.—Returning from the first vacation he has taken in 10 years, William Martin Jeffers, executive vice president of the Union Pacific system, reached Los Angeles harbor today from Honolulu on the Matson-Oceanic liner Monterey after an absence from the mainland of four weeks.

The railroad executive expressed delight in the attractions of Hawaii, which has boomed this summer with a revival of tourist interest approaching the peak level of 1929. Matson steamship officials credit to air conditioning of trains much of the increased transcontinental travel which frequently culminates in the voyage between California and Hawaii.

"Labor conditions on the railroads are all that could be desired," the active head of the 10,000-mile system stated.

Mr. Jeffers "grew up with the property," as he says of his connection with the Union Pacific system. Born at North Platte, Neb., he began his railway career as a messenger boy with the company in 1890. He continued with the same road as telegrapher, clerk, dispatcher, train master, assistant superintendent of the Utah division and then superintendent of the Wyoming and Nebraska divisions. In 1908 he became general superintendent and in 1916 was appointed general manager, later vice president in charge of operations. In 1932 he was appointed executive vice president.

FURNITURE MAN TELLS KNACK OF FIXING UP GUEST ROOM

The knack of fixing up a guest room is simple—just pretend that you're the guest and arrange things the way you would like to have them.

That's the formula recommended by furniture men who have helped thousands of families arrange their homes and apartments, and it's guaranteed to work. The hostess who goes to work from that angle is sure to avoid the pitfalls that irked her when she was a guest in some one else's home.

A few hints were compiled by J. N. Harding of the Chandler Furniture company, who assisted in the plans for National Furniture week. In case you have a guest room on your mind—or may have some day—here they are:

Minimum Requirements

1. Minimum requirements: Bed (or twin beds), dresser, table or desk, easy chair, desk chair, night table and at least two lamps. If the room is large, other pieces may be added. Twin beds are preferable if space permits.

2. Don't fill up the drawers with things of your own for which you have no room elsewhere. Guests like to unpack, whether they're staying for a day or a month, and a few empty drawers are extremely welcome.

3. Be sure there's light near the bed. You may be able to find the wall switch easily in the dark. The guest, who isn't so familiar with the location of the furniture, may have quite a search for it.

4. Strive for a cheerful informality . . . make the guest feel as much at home as possible. And since no one has to live with the furnishings, the year 'round, you have more latitude in the use of bright colors and furniture of unusual design. The guest room offers a good opening wedge for the introduction of modern furniture into your home.

5. If you have only one guest room, as is usually the case, don't make it predominantly masculine or feminine, for your visitors may be either sex or both.

Another Important Point

"Another point to remember," Mr. Harding added, "is that the guest room is a living room as well as a bedroom. No thoughtful hostess will neglect her guest, but at the same time endless conversation does become tiring. Most visitors will appreciate a chance to retire to their own room occasionally to read, write letters home or just relax. Equipment for 'relaxation,' as well as sleep, should be provided."

As in all bedrooms, the spring and mattress are important items in the furnishing plan. Some people, especially those not used to traveling, find it more difficult to sleep in strange surroundings, and a comfortable bed is therefore essential. If the budget is limited, it's wiser to economize elsewhere than in this department, for a guest who has spent a comfortable night is a guest easy to please the next day.

"If you value the friendship of your guests, deposit that old, wornout mattress in the ash heap—not on your guest bed," was Mr. Harding's advice.

Radio Roundup

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS

By HOMER CANFIELD

ALEXANDER WOOLLCOTT opens his Sunday evening sessions of story-telling tomorrow, KHJ-CBS, 4 to 4:30 p. m. The program will be patterned after the "Town Crier" series he inaugurated last October. Long noted as WOOLLCOTT author, playwright and critic, the versatile Woollcott soared to radio prominence in 1930 when he first faced a microphone over CBS.

Speaking before the convention of the Young Republicans' Assembly of California in the Scottish Rite temple,

HOOVER Oakland, Herbert Hoover will be heard over KFI-NBC from 7:30 to 8 o'clock tonight.

The first nationwide broadcast of a collegiate night football game will come over KHJ-CBS starting at FOOTBALL 6:30. Northwestern and Purdue are the teams playing. The broadcast comes from Evanston, Ill. Although no announcers have been billed, it is expected that Ted Husing will cover the game.

"Shell Chateau" comes from New York tonight. Walter Winchell emcees the show on a one-time shot.

CHATEAU Next week Wallace Beery takes over the program for an extended run with the program again taking to the nation from Hollywood. Victor Young, musical director, planed back to New York for this one broadcast.

Leslie Howard's dramatic series starting tomorrow, KHJ-CBS, 5:30 to 6 p. m., will be a striking departure from the beaten path in that it offers a succession of episodes, each drawn from Jeffery Farnol's novel, "The Ama-

HOWARD teur Gentleman." Trying to carry the listeners' interest over a week with the "To Be Continued Next Week" idea is a bold undertaking.

Robert L. (Believe It Or Not) Ripley inaugurates a weekly half-hour show over KFI-NBC, Sunday at 4:30 p. m. Ozzie Nelson's dance

RIPLEY band and Harriet Hilliard vocalist, will also be featured. This is the same program that starred Joe Penner last year.

HISTORIANS WILL ATTEND MEET OF E CLAMPUS VITUS

E Clampus Vitus is not a malady nor is it a medical term. It is a medical term. It is the name of an organization comprised chiefly of California historians. The name is derived from an old '49er mining camp organization, and has been revived during recent years.

Tonight, four Orange county E Clampus Vitusers will go to Los Angeles to attend a meeting at the home of Roger altonD, another member of the organization. Those who are planning to attend are Former Deputy District Attorney Leo Friis, Anaheim, and Thomas E. Williams, director of the junior college Fine Arts Press, Postmaster T. E. Stephenson and Stanley Goode of Santa Ana.

DRIVER FACES AUTO DEATH CHARGES

Charges of manslaughter today faced John Vidosh, 34, of 514 East Broadway, Anaheim, who was arrested by Santa Ana police yesterday following an investigation into a traffic accident at First and Lyon streets Thursday afternoon. The accident resulted in the death of S. H. Hayward, 62, of 787 Manzanita drive, Laguna Beach, driver of one of the light trucks involved in the collision.

Assistant Chief of Police Harry Fink said today that when the accident had been investigated immediately following the collision, Vidosh had stated that Mr. Hayward had failed to make a boulevard stop. Further investigation yesterday revealed that Mr. Hayward had been driving east on First street and had collided head-on with the light truck driven by Vidosh. Vidosh had told officers previously that Mr. Hayward's light truck had come out of Lyon street. Officers also found evidence which led them to believe that Vidosh was driving on the wrong side of the street when the collision occurred.

An inquest into the fatal accident will be held in the Laguna Beach mortuary Monday at 10 a. m., Deputy Coroner Bert Casteix said today.

Vidosh was arraigned this morning before Justice of the Peace K. E. Morrison who ordered him held under $10,000 bail. The preliminary hearing will be held at 9 a. m., Oct. 10.

CHEST PARADE CALLED OFF

The parade calling attention to the Community Chest campaign, scheduled for tonight, has been cancelled, Mrs. Edward M. Hall, head of the committee in charge, said today. Cancellation of the parade was due to the inability of the comittee to secure bands, it was said.

Mrs. Hall said that the Boy Scout band is in San Diego taking part in scout day at the exposition, and the Salvation Army band is unavailable.

It had been planned to have either floats or marching units in the procession representing each agency in the Chest.

Officials of the Chest said today that advance reports are most encouraging in that they indicate a successful ending of this year's campaign. The first advance report was submitted by employes of the county health department whao gave an average of $8 per employe to the Chest. The second report was submitted by the county surveyor's office with an average contribution of $10.50.

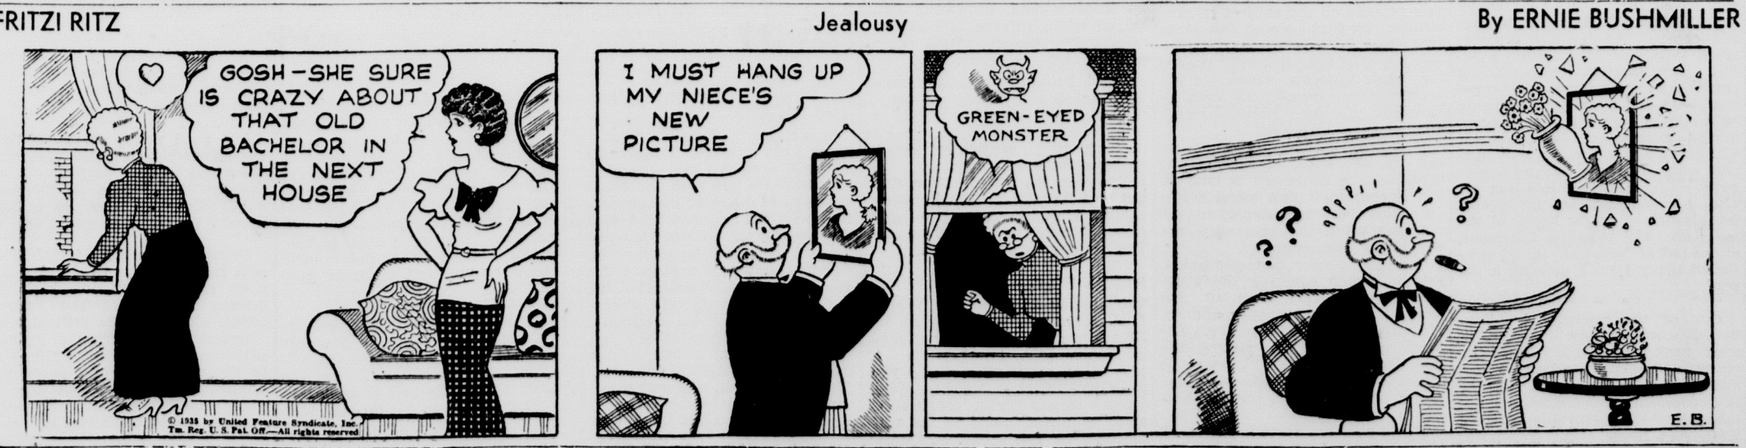

The first 100 per cent Honor Roll emblem went to the Orange County Paint company.

With the entire army of volunteer workers in the field, first official reports to be turned in Tuesday at the luncheon meeting of Santa Ana Rotary club. At the same time awards will be made in the Chest essay contest.

To the Invading Italians:

Watch out for the Conquering Lion. His wrath is terrible. And he knows no taming, once aroused.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Horton:

Bon voyage and may your well-earned vacation bring you rest and add to your happiness.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To Chief of Police Floyd Howard:

Your safety campaign seems to be taking hold. I hope I shall see hundreds of Santa Ana automobiles bearing the stickers which read "Santa Ana Police Safety Pledge."

COL. V. ORANGE.

To the Beach Cities:

It was a friendly gesture as well as good business for you to register an affirmative vote on the water bonds. You have made good with the rest of the county which has endeavored to assist you in times past, particularly on the harbor improvement. You played the game.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To Legionnaires of Santa Ana:

Reports from San Diego today say there was no more lively group than yours as you gathered at the exposition to participate in American Legion Days. I was glad to see so many of you leave for the exposition city this morning. It was a real credit to the city.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To Los Angeles Board of Education:

I see by the papers that it cost you $117,000 to dismiss school so the children could see the President. You think I'm going to ask, "Was it worth it?" I'll fool you and tell you I think it was. I'm not 100 per cent sold on Mr. Roosevelt but if 280,000 children get an inspiration, a sense of patriotism, a love of country out of seeing the man who happens to be the nation's boss, I think it was attendance money well sacrificed.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To The Journal:

May I congratulate you and other afternoon newspapers on your ability, by reason of the difference in time, to give the very latest war news of the day long before the morning papers can get around to it? When it is 2 p. m. in Santa Ana and The Journal is preparing to go to press with its home edition, it is 11 p. m. in Rome and midnight or after in Ethiopia. All the day's fighting has been done. The Associated Press, with its thoroughgoing coverage, will have brought the complete story to The Journal long before that hour.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To High School Students:

You are to be congratulated on the manner in which you are accepting your temporary inconvenience during your recitation and study periods. It is to be regretted that it was found necessary to vacate the buildings considered unsafe for occupancy by reason of the earthquake damage. Better quarters will be provided before long and while they will be only temporary tent-houses, they will be more comfortable than some of the red schoolhouses the great men and women of the country came from. If you really want an education, it will be available, bonds or no bonds.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To Voters:

You have decided the issue. We will have no flood control or water conservation under the plan submitted by the supervisors. A very great majority voted for the bonds. The two-thirds majority required by law was short but a few hundred votes. Many will say the two-thirds requirement is unjust, but in the final analysis, it is a safe and sound governor, disappointed though we may be in this particular instance. One very notable thing has been accomplished. A great interest in the subject of an additional water supply and a flood control system has been aroused. That was The Journal's purpose from the outset. If the plan just vetoed isn't the right one, a better one, we hope, will be forthcoming. But the interest developed during the campaign just closed, should not be allowed to die. Our water problem is still unsolved.

COL. V. ORANGE.

To Community Chest Contributors:

Here is something you will be interested in: Clyde A. Tolson, assistant director of the federal bureau of investigation of the department of justice, speaking before the Iowa Association of Chiefs of Police, said: "There is operating in the United States an army of 500,000 armed criminals; one in every 25 persons in this country has a police record; crime costs every man, woman and child in the United States at least $120 a year; the total cost of crime in this country this year is $15,000,000 and, if averages prevail, about 12,000 citizens will be murdered, 100,000 will be assaulted and 50,000 will be robbed." There are seven social agencies receiving help from the Community Chest. Each is a crime-prevention institution. Each is a character-builder. Is it worth the few dollars you are asked to give during the year to help keep Santa Ana boys and girls on the right path?

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—More and more it strikes me, people are learning to appreciate the quieter things. They pull for serener havens. Not so many are making a night of it any more. Mencken and Nathan's Age of Agnosticism and Century of Cacaphonistic Cajolery have passed.

For the man who lives by his pen this new taste must be satiated. The older Towsers cannot be taught new tricks. Somewhere in embryo for instance is the popular columnist of tomorrow. He will not be shouting down the wind or dishing up piffle. Or will he ever turn out a wincing line.

Millions of readers are waiting to enjoy the meanderings of a contented mind, ready to smile in quiet appreciation with a scribbler who leisurely unfolds his random thoughts. There should be a new crop of Lambs, Hunts, Hazletts, and Addisons in this modern world. And there will be!

The intimate, personal essay, as an art form, has practically died in contemporary literature. The time for revival has come. The revivalist will be one with a gift for writing what he enjoys in enjoyable manner. No genuflections to economics or sex. But gentle ramblings of a gentleman!

There's a legend "Sweet Adeline" was dashed off hurriedly just to be caroled at a party for a girl of that name. The author says nay. It was worked on assiduously—what really does that word mean?—and ballyhooed to popularity. How I'd like to hear again the old Bison City Four or the Empire City Quartette. Singing "When You Wore a Tulip!" and "Good Bye, Mary." The basso fixed up as a tragedian, the baritone with a faked up pot belly and Holland cap, the alto a nice boy with curly golden wig, straw sailor and cherry lips. And the plump, ragged newsboy tenor who twisted his cap in mighty strain for a high note. You feared he would not reach it. But it was on ice all the time!

On a sweep of Central Park meadow along the west drive the other sundown a group of jobless acrobats were practicing nip-ups, hand-sands, somersaults and sundry catapaults. Women, their wives I presume, sat on the sidelines with murmurs of encouragement. They worked earnestly, perspiringly and with a thorough abandon. Somehow I left with a heaviness. Despite their lightness, no class in the amusement field has been so shorn of avenues for a livelihood. It recalls the vaudeville curse: "May your children be acrobats!"

Waggish presents to people sailing abroad has been one of the major diversions for those staying at home. There was that pink pig in a poke for Elsa Clare well. But Buff Cobb and Clare Boothe Brokaw contributed the peak in bon voyage madness to a recent departing and mutual friend. They raided a department store basement and had delivered to the cabin an iron park bench, painted bright green, a set of garden tools and an extra tall step ladder.

The Long Island coast, particularly the Hamptons, East and South, offered a terror to bathers this summer in what is known as the sea puss. Percy Hammond was saved from one by his husky son. Grantland Rice had a narrow escape. As did, if I was correctly informed, May Wilson Preston. The sea puss is a whirling current between two submerged sand-bars and when even a strong swimmer gets in one, there's practically nothing he can do. It will carry one out to sea in a furious whirl and all he can do is swim with it until it lets him go. The phenomenon is not visible from shore. I never heard of the sea puss until recently, but since, as so often happens, it is mentioned every time I pick up a paper.

One of the celebrity buildings in midtown is the co-operative apartment house at 322 East 57th street. The crooner Lanny Ross and his bride are recent tenants. It houses the last Urban-designed apartment and luxurious study of Katherine Brush. Ina Claire was one of the original apartment owners as was John Hays Hammond's artistic daughter Natalie. Cobina Wright lived there and turned her apartment into a supper club when the stock market smashed up her life. Lily Pons was there a winter or so. So were Roland Young and Leslie Howard. The penthouse and entire top floor comprise a single apartment, owned by a Bostonian named Draper, who is rarely there. He hunts big game in Africa, comes home every few years and has boarded up his windows entirely. The whole interior thus becomes a museum. O, yes, a block away is a quiet coffee shop catering the brew that O. Henry described as: "Black as night, sweet as sugar, hot as hell!" All the celebrities foregather there.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—Joe Green, the state department boy whom the threat of war suddenly elevated to the all-important post of munitions controller, has led one of the most charmed lives in political-diplomacy.

Five years ago he was asked to resign as professor of history at Princeton, and came to the state department to look for a job. Assistant Secretary Castle, whom he interviewed, asked him:

"Whom do you know around here?"

"Well," replied Green after some hesitation, "I know Mr. Hoover."

"That might help," smiled Mr. Castle. "How well do you know him?"

Green then told how he was assisting Hoover in Belgium during the World war when erroneously accused by German army officers of espionage. Hoover investigated the charge, found it completely groundless; went to bat for his assistant in a big way, and forced the German officers to retract.

Mr. Hoover, at the time Green applied to Castle, was occupying the White House. Green got his job.

LUCKY JOE

WHEN Mr. Hoover left the White House in 1933, naturally Joe Green was a bit jittery. He talked at great length to newspapermen about the sanctity of the career service. And through some whim of fate he remained unnoticed by Mr. Farley.

By this time, Green had begun to specialize on the subject of munitions. In fact he was the state department official who OK'd the departure of four bombing planes for South America, which his superiors later grounded in Peru as violators of the Bolivian-Paraguayan arms embargo.

But because Mr. Hull had no one else who knew anything about munitions, he continued to lean on Mr. Green; took him along while appearing before committees of congress when the neutrality act was under discussion.

One day during this discussion, newspapermen covering the state department rushed word to Joe Green that the neutrality act (in the form opposed by the state department) had just passed the senate.

"Oh no," replied Green, "that couldn't be so. I was just up talking to them."

Joe is now the state department official chiefly responsible for the administration of the neutrality act.

"PROJECT EDITORS"

THERE has been a marked change recently in the description of work-relief projects given in official press releases. The titles have become sonorous and important.

Reason is that the wise-cracking about boon-doggling and leaf-raking got under the skin of the White House. So one day Steve Early, presidential press secretary, called up Harry Hopkins and demanded a change.

The WPA boss turned the job over to some of his bright young assistants. They evolved the plan of creating a staff of "project editors" to go over the titles of state and local work-relief projects, and eliminate anything savoring of boon-doggling.

The result has been some fancy word-juggling.

For example: A New York City item listed as "recreational facilities for internes and nurses" was metamorphosed into "project in adult education." An Ohio project designated as "stump and underbrush removal" became "development of park and recreation area." In a southern county a project for the construction of out-houses was transformed to: "Sanitation improvements."

Where there's a will there's always a ready pencil.

SEC CLIQUES

NOW that Joe Kennedy has resigned, his securities-exchange commission is drifting into cliques and factions which may eventually destroy its A-1 reputation.

A lot of Wall Streeters who came down to teach the ins and outs of Wall Street functioned pretty well under Kennedy; but with his retirement they are unleashed.

They are lobbying for one of their own kind to fill the present vacancy on the commission. Particularly they want to block the appointment of Baldwin B. Bane, now in charge of registering all securities, and the most likely candidate for commissioner.

"Bebe" Bane was the first chief administrator of the early truth-in-securities act, when it was administered by the federal trade commission. He was responsible for setting up the high standards which have been followed ever since.

He also was behind the initial knock-down - and - drag - out fight staged when private business interests first thought they could bulldoze SEC officials.

Chief belligerent in the fight was the Montana mining firm of "Unity Gold," backed by Paul A. Gow, who mustered enough political support on capitol hill finally to have Bane investigated.

However, the investigation flopped and Bane issued a stop-order against Unity Gold, preventing it from listing its securities for sale. The stop-order still stands.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

THE action of Professor Walton H. Hamilton, chairman of the NRA consumers' advisory council, in launching a quiet probe of prices, is causing undercover perturbation among retailers. Their emissaries are trying to find out what Hamilton plans to do with the data he uncovers. . . . One of the prized possessions of "Jefty" O'Connor, publicity-minded comptroller of the currency, is a letter from former Vice President Charles G. Dawes congratulating him on the "great and successful accomplishment of your office in the rehabilitation of the banking system." Jefty has no such letter from the President or from Secretary Morgenthau—who has tried repeatedly to get rid of him. . . . A jinx seems to be following the new archives building. Its formal opening, scheduled for last April, had to be postponed. Several subsequent postponements have caused Architect R. D. W. Connor to refuse to fix a date. Cause of the delay is the necessity of making a number of changes in the interior of the building, chiefly the fire-proofing of certain sections where priceless historical records will be stored. . . . Attorney General Homer Cummings is an autograph fan, keeps a book in his office for all visitors to sign.

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

The Philippines—Viva La Libertad

THE Philippines have made a start on the difficult path toward independence. Manuel Quezon will assume the presidency Nov. 15. He has been the leading exponent of qualified independence, that sort of agitator who wants the benefits of political independence but none of its dangers and worries. He wants indulgent Uncle Sam to continue as protector, holding a sheltering umbrella over our twelve million brown cousins. He wants the privilege of mixing in troubled political waters, of making faces at potential enemies in the Far East, and of scurrying to cover when the storms threaten. He wants easy access to America's domestic market, the richest consuming territory in the world. He wants American capital to have uninterrupted flow into the islands, exploiting the vast resources for his own government to squander. He wants gullible old U. S. A. to pitch pennies with him on the basis of "heads I win, tails you lose" proposition.

PRESIDENT-ELECT QUEZON is starting housekeeping in the most approved modern style. He wants a military organization at once. He does not intend to be a mere puppet ruler, like shadowy Chinese mandarins or Indian rajahs. He wants uniformed armies to play with and puffing guns to scare his neighbors. Thirty-five years of American tutelage have shown the Filipinos the necessity of goose-stepping and of toting rifles.

He has asked President Roosevelt to lend him the services of General Douglas McArthur and the president has consented. This is the same general who demands that America add 800 war planes annually to its air fleet, and who clamors continually for bigger and better defenses. The trusting Filipinos will find themselves in for a costly session with the general. The head-hunters in Mindanao will soon find the tax-collector levying toll on their gory spoils.

NO such qualified independence should be granted. The only sensible step for America in this situation is to sever all connections completely and immediately.

The sooner we are through with the Philippines the better. Thoughtful students of history regret that the Spanish-American war thrust this colonial problem upon us. That senseless conflict did many evil things for us, but none quite so evil as foisting this whole Philippine mess upon our country. Dewey's dubious victory on that May day, 1898, involved a train of consequences most damaging to democracy and the spirit of free government. We can't turn back the clock of time but we can do our best to cut completely the festering ties which bind us to the Far East.

WOULD-BE alarmists shout that Japan will gobble up the Philippines at once. Now, that's my idea of something to worry about. If Japan hasn't any more sense than to bite on that bitter almond she deserves to get stung. But then, it wouldn't be so bitter for her as it has been for us. Anyhow, the white man's sun is setting in the orient and the more gracefully he withdraws the fewer will be the scratches he will get.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town

Find on my desk safety pledge sticker from the Santa Ana police department. Say, what's the idea? I'm the original safety driver. I've never had a wreck, owned a car, or had any trouble with a pink slip. So, Mr. Howard, come over and get your sticker and cut out the insinuation that I'm inviting a wreck. My trouble has been keeping out of 'em. At that I'm in favor of your promotion, whether it does any good or not. In passing let me say to you if it contributes the wholesome influence that your junior police project did it will be worth a lot more than the cost.

Maybe the old eyesight is getting a little dim. Age inflicts such a penalty. Went down to First and Main and Seventeenth and Main to see the new traffic signals, and were they there, Charley?

Well, anyway, we won't have another election for a few weeks—let us hope—unless someone thinks he has a grudge against someone in office and starts a recall, or something. Every time the voter goes to the polls he has to pay his proportion of the vote expense. Maybe after a few more hundred years we will decide not to vote so often.

And then again let's get this Community Chest campaign out of our system. It's important too, like water. It takes more than a drink to keep us moving, food is indispensible, and there will be worthy unfortunates to come within our benefactions and sympathies. So take out the old check book and write your contribution to the Chest—and don't forget to put on your signature.

Met a fellow who lost the baseball pool by just one score. Why tell me. I wasn't the umpire.

If I had as many contributions as I did interferences in preparing the copy today for this column, I could have had a six weeks' vacation. All right, I'll finish it en masse: "And we wish you had."

Be sure your forgetfulness will embarrass you. This to those frequenters of thirst parlors who tried to push open the front door yesterday and it refused to yield. It was election day, and beverages with a kick in 'em were not served until after the polls closed. Chanced to observe a few old-timers who were disappointed when the entrance remained adamant. And was their face red?

Well, there are other places which have run out of water, according to tradition.

Hugh Johnson says it's fine to give three million men employment on government projects, but when the money runs out and the jobs are incomplete where do we go for the rest of the money to finish the work. Someone says the same place, but if we go too often what then? Now listen, that's a question you can decide for yourself when winter comes. That will be along in 1936. This is not a political column, but gee, I'm itching to say sumpin' sometimes.

Sometimes wars are won by economic pressure instead of bullet pressure. Food prices are on the lift in Italy.

My good friend E. P. Nickey was somewhat disturbed yesterday about my voting privileges. He thought the judges of election might limit my franchise to half a vote.

Some distracting interference past few days due to world series radio report emanating from the service in front of The Journal office. Had a little difficulty on concentration. During a conversation with a ministerial friend as to the percentage of folk on the wrong side, there crept into a paragraph in the course of preparation, something about the score being 6 to nothing. That wasn't very flattering for the ministerial side so I threw out the story.

Detained for confidential conference, not once, but often. My followers want to know more about the blonde. As if I could betray a confidence. Why, before I would do anything like that, I would go to San Clemente first.

Those incipient explosions amuse me. Good friend comes in to tell me that a certain story appearing in the paper about a certain incident had been out in the dew all night, and the reporter also got his feet wet. Well, says I, bring in the dry towel and we'll get the boys going right, but be sure and bring in the complaining witness. Made a note of the alleged irregularities and insisted the other side of the story be offered for publication. Those notes have now been on my desk for two weeks and I'm still waiting for the complaining witness to appear.
